Let us be thankful

THANKSGIVING

It's Thanksgiving again
and what are we thankful for?
Are we thankful that the Pilgrims landed on the New England shore
in a place called America,
which God made for you and me?
Are we thankful that we are living in the land of the free?
Are we thankful for Old Glory
that is still waving high?
Are we thankful for the soldiers who fought for you and I?
Are we thankful for the freedom
we have to serve our God?
Are we thankful for our food,
health and friends and the earth on which we trod?
We should be thankful for a lot of things
on this Thanksgiving day.
Let us all thank God for America
when we pray.

Until ordinance is amended

City withholds water payments...

By JIM BRADLEY
Roman Staff Writer

The City of Romulus has notified Detroit that it is not going to pay them another penny to cover water and sewer expenses until Romulus' ordinance is updated to pay its own way.

For approximately three years, Romulus has been paying Detroit for its water out of the budget's general fund. But the well, or in this case the fund, is "going dry."

According to Michael Herman, director of water and sewer billing, his "cash-flow" has dwindled to a trickle — and he has notified Detroit of that fact.

In a recent letter to George Bingham, sanitary engineer for the Downriver Sewage Disposal System, Herman stated: "The City of Romulus is suffering from a cash-flow problem in the water and sewer department. The problem is that the city does not currently have water and sewer rates sufficient to cover the expenses of the department."

Herman explained in the letter that the audit by the accounting firm of Icerman, Johnson and Hoffman showed a loss of $750,000 during the past fiscal year and a projected loss of $1 million next fiscal year.

Herman explained further that wholesale water rates charged Romulus by Detroit have risen 71 percent since 1967 and sewer rates have increased 197 percent since 1974. During that same period, Herman says, the Romulus City Council passed only 39 percent of those increases on to the citizens.

"When enough revenues are collected to cover the water and sewer bills the city will make payments on them," Herman's letter concluded.

Peter O'Rourke, an attorney for a firm giving legal counsel to the city of Romulus, was to recommend a new water and sewer ordinance to the city council last night that would provide sufficient funds to operate the water and sewer department on a sound fiscal basis.

"We have subsidized the water and sewer department long enough from the general fund," Stewart said yesterday.

"No more city funds are going to pay the water and sewer bills," he insisted. "It's time that department paid its own way like it's supposed to."

...and balks on paying police costs

By JIM BRADLEY
Roman Staff Writer

The City of Romulus refuses to pay the "middle man."

That's the stand Mayor Janes Stewart and his administration are taking in their attempt to renew the city's contract with the Wayne County Sheriff's Departmnt for police protection.

And the "middle man" — in this case the Wayne County Board of Auditors — wants a hefty $202,000 more than Romulus says the contract calls for.

"We have discussed and agreed upon a contract with the Sheriff's Department," Stewart said Monday, and if we could deal directly with them, this contract would be signed.

"No way are we going to pay $50,000 per car for each of the four cars we have patrolling our city."

Romulus' contract with Wayne County ran out in August and they have continued under the same terms. But when Romulus was billed $202,640 more than the contract calls for, Stewart asked the Board of Auditors what it was for.

The county replied it was for "administrative fees."

Stewart and other city officials are adamant in their belief that the cost increase is not justified and want an explanation.

Stewart feels some of the "administrative costs" have already been paid in the regular contract.

"Our whole problem is having to deal with the Wayne County Board of Auditors as the middle man," Stewart claims. "We've already sat down and reached agreement with the Sheriff's Department and we're going to stick by that accord."

Peter O'Rourke, a member of a legal firm representing the city, was scheduled to submit a report to city council last night concerning the contract he has drawn up with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

2 sports reinstated, but donations needed

By JIM BRADLEY
Roman Staff Writer

Romulus High School's varsity basketball and wrestling teams' biggest opponents aren't even listed on this season's schedule.

That battle will be to raise enough money through volunteer efforts to support the two sports.

The Romulus Board of Education gave approval Monday night to high school principal Joel Carr's recommendation that the winter athletic program be re-instated at no cost to the school board. Varsity winter sports were cut two weeks ago.

"I sweated blood out there," Carr said, after appearing before the school board. "I'm glad they gave their approval, but it's going to take everybody working hard to raise the money to pay for the two winter sports."

Carr said the total cost of the venture would total about $7,000, with about half of the money derived from gate receipts.

Carr had proposed using a van from the Romulus Recreation Department to transport athletes to games, but that part of the program was nixed and regular school buses will be used.

A packed room heard Carr's presentation, including several alumni as well as coaches, students and parents.

Head basketball coach Jesse Meriweather, now in his third year, was relieved with the board's action, but still concerned.

"I'm happy the boys will be able to play, for their sake. But everybody's got to realize we've still got to raise $3,500 through various volunteer student and adult projects if we're to be able to go through the entire season," he said.

"Remember, it's a pay-as-you-go basis."

Head wrestling coach Vern Logan and JV cage mentor Rod Hanna also expressed hope the people would respond generously to several fund-raisers they have tentatively planned.

He's a 'Little Slugger'

'Preemie' fights odds—and wins

"He wasn't even as wide as my hand, and the doctors said he wouldn't live, but my husband, John, and I felt all along that our baby would survive."

This is the way Mrs. Nancy Maitland, 19, describes her "miracle" baby, Craig Scott, who weighed only one pound, 14 oz. at birth, and whose weight at one point dropped to one pound, eight ounces.

The Romulus mother says: "I was upset when the doctors were so quick to 'give up' but I guess they just felt there wasn't any hope."

Craig was born Aug. 23 at Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn, and although he was three months premature, he was delivered by natural birth.

Mrs. Maitland said she owes "many thanks" to the doctors and also the neonatal intensive care unit at Detroit's Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital, which took the baby when it was a week old.

"Craig stopped breathing at one point," his mother explained, "because his tiny lungs were not strong enough. He was put on a respirator and nursed along until new he weighs a little over five pounds."

Nancy said her husband, John, was a big inspiration through the difficult days.

"John never once gave up hope, even when the doctors said there was little chance of Craig surviving," she asid. "I hoped he would make it, but John never wavered in his belief that his son would pull through."

Mrs. Maitland found unusual comfort and delight in the doctor's words at the hospital after the baby "made it" and was brought home Nov. 10.

"It's definitely a miracle. It's things like this that makes being a doctor worthwhile," the doctor told Mrs. Maitland, who lives at 10038 Miriam in Romulus.

"Miracle" babies are few and far between, especially those who are delivered by natural birth at six months. Mrs. Nancy Maitland holds her son, Craig Scott, who doctors thought would not survive when he only weighed one pound, 14 oz. at birth. The "Little Slugger" (see his pajamas) is exactly that and seems to have hit a "home run" in the miracle field.—Photo by Mike Higgins.

'Punishment should fit crime'

Cahalan blasts 'inequitable' sentencing

By MAUREEN RADEMACHER
Roman Staff Writer

See editorial, Page A-6.

There is no justice in a criminal justice system where one person convicted of a violent crime can get a suspended sentence, while another person convicted of the same crime can get sentenced to life in prison.

But that, unfortunately, is the way justice works in Michigan, said Wayne County Prosecutor William Cahalan during a Wayne Chamber of Commerce meeting Thursday.

Equal protection under the law is scrupulously applied throughout the whole arrest and trial procedure, "until we come to the most crucial step of the proceedings," Cahalan said.

"The criminal stands before the judge for a decision on whether or not the wrongdoer will be deprived of his liberty, and at that point we leave it to the judge's whim and caprice.

"Everyone is unequal at that moment."

Cahalan maintains that certaintly of punishment, in the form of minimum mandatory prison sentences, is necessary for justice in Michigan.

Such mandatory sentences have been proven as crime deterrents, he said.

Although citizens cannot control many of the causes of crimes, this is one area where citizens can do something about crime.

"We don't use our deterrents," he said. "The only deterrent we have is a fear on the part of the wrongdoer that he will be deprived of his liberty.

"We don't deter crime if we don't use our deterrents."

Cahalan said "65 percent of all persons convicted of a felony never lose one moment of their freedom."

These people walk out of court with probation or a suspended sentence, he added.

He blamed this inequity on a systme of justice where sole discretion in sentencing is left to the judiciary. While a judicial ruling or verdict can be appealed, a sentence handed down by a judge cannot be appealed, he said.

Only the crimes of murder, armed robbery and treason carry any mandatory minimum sentences, he said.

In other violent crimes, such as aggravated assault, "you can suspend his sentence, put him on probation, or put him in Jackson Prison for the rest of his life."

"We have given this discretion to the judge, and he or she has decided to fit the punishment to the criminal, not to the crime," he said.

Cahalan said he is convinced that certainty of punishment will deter crime, referring to a dramatic example of that deterrent in Florida.

A law went into effect just this year in Florida requiring that any person convicted of a felony who had a firearm in his possession must go to jail for three years. No parole or probation would be allowed.

"We have been advised by the Attorney General's office in Florida that in the first six months of this year, compared to the first six months of last year, armed robbery has decreased by 39 percent, assault with a firearm has decreased by 14½ percent while assault without a weapon has increased, and homicide with a firearm has decreased by 21 percent."

Such mandatory sentences would not only deter criminals, but would guarantee that convicted criminals would be put out of action for two or three years, causing another reduction in crime.

Cahalan put the burden of changing the justice system in Michigan on the citizens.

"You get what you want in a democracy," he said. "Who gave the judge all that discretion? You did."

Cahalan went on to say that he will be presenting the state Legislature with petitions in a few weeks that ask for mandatory minimum sentences for violent crimes.

After that, it will be up to those elected representatives to pass legislation making these mandatory sentences law.

He asked citizens with strong feelings about it to contact their legislators to insure that approprite laws are passed.

"We can do something about it," he said. "It is within our control."

Cut Your 1976 Federal Income Tax Now...
With a Tax Sheltered Retirement Savings Account at Standard Federal Savings!

Individual Retirement Accounts

An individual Retirement Account (IRA) is a personal tax-sheltered retirement savings plan for people who are not covered by a pension or profit sharing plan. The IRA plan allows you to deposit up to $1,500 annually, or 15% of your earned income, whichever is less, in a tax-sheltered savings account. Your annual deposit is deductible from your gross income when computing your Federal Income Tax and your IRA savings account interest is tax-deferred until you redeem your account.

Any wage earner who is not a participant in a retirement plan may set up an IRA. This includes:
- individuals working for firms that do not have pension or profit sharing plans.
- "new" employees who do not qualify for a pension plan at their place of employment.
- self-employed persons who prefer an IRA to a Keogh plan.
- employees leaving a pension or profit sharing plan can rollover into an IRA account.

How IRA grows compared to normal savings

INTEREST RATE	AFTER 6 YEARS		AFTER 12 YEARS		AFTER 18 YEARS		AFTER 24 YEARS
	IRA	Normal Savings	IRA	Normal Savings	IRA	Normal Savings	IRA	Normal Savings
5¼ %	$10,845	$8,134	$25,676	$19,257	$45,956	$34,467	$ 73,689	$55,267
6½ % * 1 yr. Certificate	11,347	8,510	28,054	21,040	52,652	39,489	88,870	66,653
7¾ % * 6 yr. Certificate	11,875	8,906	30,697	23,023	60,529	45,396	107,810	80,858

The chart assumes wage earner is in the 25% tax bracket and wants to save $1500 annually with a deposit in each calendar year. With IRA the full $1500 (no tax payable) is deposited and the interest accumulates tax sheltered until retirement. Without IRA, the $1500 pre-tax dollars would be reduced by taxes to a net deposit of $1125 and all interest accumulations would be taxed during the current tax period.

Keogh Plan

The Keogh plan allows self-employed persons to set aside tax-sheltered dollars up to $7,500 each year, or 15% of your earned income, whichever is less. The amount you set aside is tax deductible and the interest earned is tax-deferred until you retire. Income taxes on both principal and interest are payable only when benefits are withdrawn from your account.

Volunteer officers

Romulus' 34 District Court will be served by 11 volunteer probation officers, thanks to a training program devised and developed by Darrell Lucas and Carol Bowman and given impetus by Judges James B. Stone and Henry Zaborowski, along with officials from other agencies. Gathered for ceremonies marking completion of their classes are (front, from left) Gertrude Noeyack, Jo Ann Nash, Devere Willard, Volunteer Coordinator Carol Bowman, Charlotte Reaume and Judge Stone. Back row, from left, are Marge Chapman, Julie Nordstrom, Judge Zaborowski, Marvin Brown, Mike Patino, Russ Dagenais, Rick Thompson, Court Administration Charles E. Walls, Mike Zadorski and Probation Coordinator Darrell Lucas.

Volunteers complete probation officer class

Romulus' 34th District Court marked completion of its first Volunteer Probation Officer (VPO) training program at a ceremony last week during which 11 persons were graduated.

Judges Henry Zaborowski and James B. Stone presided over the award of certificates to the graduates, who will now be assigned to counsel persons put on probation by the court.

Judge Stone thanked the volunteers for offering "much needed help to the court which handled over 17,000 cases last year."

Citing the critical need for "a deterrent to future crime," Judge Zaborowski added that the VPOs "will serve a most useful purpose by helping probationers avoid becoming repeat offenders."

The program, developed by Darrell Lucas and Carol Bowman, of the court's probation department, included classes on alcohol abuse, drugs, counseling, and court and police procedures.

Guest speakers, who covered various subjects, included Sgt. Ron Brown of the Wayne County Sheriff's office, Len Melnick and Virginia Koster, of the Romulus Help Center, and Gerald Maloney, of Annapolis Hospital's Alcohol Therapy Unit.

Stone and Zaborowski provided the trainees with a background on law and courtroom procedures.

Charles Walls, chief probation officer of the court, taught a class on the district court system, in which the VPOs learned which offenses are handled at the district court level and those at the higher court level.

Graduates of the program were recruited from a variety of occupations and included several people already active in law enforcement including a township constable, police reserve officers and a bail-bondsman.

Comprising the first graduating class were Marvin Brown, Russ Dagenais, Charlotte Reaume, Gertrude Noeyack, Julie Nordstrom, Richard Thompson, Mike Zadorski, Mike Patino, Jo Ann Nash, Devere Willard and Marge Chapman.

A second training session is expected to begin in February and those interested in becoming a volunteer probation officer are urged to write Lucas or Bowman at the 34th District Court, 30240 Eureka Rd., in Romulus.

For VB, Belleville seniors

Hot lunches premiere

By JIM BRADLEY
Of The Enterprise-Roman Staff

Efforts to obtain a daily hot lunch program for Van Buren Township and Belleville senior citizens were crowned with success this week with the announcement that the inaugural lunch will be served at noon Monday.

Location of the "Food and Friendship Program" will be the dining area of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, 494 Columbia St., across from Belleville High School, in Belleville.

Belleville Mayor Justin Emerson and Van Buren Township Supervisor Patricia Cullin will help kick off the first meal of the program which almost never got off the ground due to lack of a suitable place.

"Where there's a will, there's a way," exclaimed an excited Mary Nichols, senior citizens' program coordinator, who has worked feverishly to beat a Dec. 3 deadline.

If a suitable building had not been found by that date, there would have been no federal funds available for the hot lunch program, she said.

"The opening of this hot catered meal program is significant for the entire community since it is an excellent example of co-operation between elected officials of Van Buren Township and Belleville," Miss Nichols said, adding:

"This positive approach to community needs the township and city avoids the needless expense of duplication of services and insures the availability of this program to all residents of this area, regardless of geographical boundaries.

"Rev. Walter Henning, pastor, and William Stanfel, chairman of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church Council have generously provided facilities necessary for our senior lunch program. Their spirit of involvement with community needs enable this service to begin locally this coming Monday."

Miss Nichols also commended Leona VanBuhler, Belleville area Chamber of Commerce, Dorothy Schroeder of Shroeder Realty; Charlie Coppock of Stinehour Realty; Herb Mida, I.O.O.F. president; the United Presbyterian Church Council; Darryl Raymond Sr., of the Masonic Lodge; the Belleville Enterprise and many others who, she said, were instrumental in locating a site and receiving approval of facilities.

"Efforts of these community-spirited individuals deserve particular recognition," Miss Nichols said, "and appreciation for their support will best be expressed by the continued success of this worthwhile endeavor."

Anyone 60 years of age or older, or anyone with a spouse 60 or older is eligible to participate. The program requests a donation of 50 cents per meal, but meals will be provided free to those unable to pay and no proof of income is required.

These same hot meals, which provide one-third of the minimum daily nutritional requirements, will be served daily at noon, Mondays through Fridays and will also be delivered to home-bound persons.

Miss Nichols said persons needing meals delivered to their homes or willing to donate time to deliver the hot lunches should contact her at the Van Buren Township Hall at 699-2001.

The greatest portion of funding for the program comes from federal sources, appropriated under the Older Americans Act of 1965, project income and donated services from Wayne County.

Other services planned for senior citizens include health screening, recreation, legal assistance, information and referral, day-long outings, nutrition education and counseling.

Flashing her victory smile last Saturday afternoon is Van Buren Township's new supervisor, Patricia Cullin, who penned her name to the book of oaths after being sworn in by 34th District Judge Henry Zaborowski. Mrs. Cullin and six other Democrats took the oath of office. Judge Zaborowski watched as Mrs. Cullin signed her name, while in the back are Constable Gary Hollowell (from left) Trustee Floyd Thetwell (behind Mrs. Cullin's head) and Wayne County Commissioner Royce Smith.—ANP photo.

Teen sings way to title of Jr. Miss

By JIM BRADLEY
Of The Enterprise-Roman Staff

Amid the beauty and splendor of attractive girls and gorgous evening gowns, a large crowd watched in anticipation as Lisa Pellecchia was crowned Belleville 1977 Junior Miss during the annual pageant in Belleville High School auditorium last Saturday night.

The 17-year-old light-haired senior gasped as she was named to the top honor, after winning the talent contest and being voted "Spirit of Junior Miss" by her nine fellow contestants.

"It's one of the biggest thrills of my life," said Lisa, who now will go on to state competition — Feb. 8-13, 1977, in Pontiac.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Pellecchia of 4520 Lilac Lane, Belleville, Lisa was crowned by last year's winner, Andrea Price, in the event sponsored by the Belleville-Van Buren Jaycees.

The new title holder wrote her own music and played it on the guitar for the competition.

Her hobbies are ballet dancing, violin, composing music and sailing, in addition to playing the guitar.

Lisa is in the German Club, Concert Choir Ambassadors and is vice-president of the Belleville High School senior class.

She would like to enter a career of nursing or physical therapy and finds great pleasure in helping people in need.

First runner-up was Judy Bly, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Bly, 11929 Ryznar Drive, Belleville, who won the Scholastic Achievement Award.

Second runner-up was Kellie Jo Gale, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Gale, who won the Creative Talent Award for a sketch on ballet.

Winner of the Incentive Award for drawing the largest crowd to the program was Cherie Kormos, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Kormos.

Other contestants in the Junior Miss Pageant were Cynthia Long, Agnes Papuzynski, Pamela Bankert, Patricia May, Teresa Mattson and Connie Cook.

Judges were Mrs. Doris Roe, vice-president of Van Buren Board, Board of Education; Mrs. Joan Carpenter, teacher at Woodruff Elementary School in Ypsilanti; G. Elton Gollwitzer, retired supervisor of Van Buren Township, and Marie Neu of Westland, Michigan Junior Miss in 1973.

Paper sale volunteers are needed

It hardly seems possible, but Christmas time is just around the corner and the Goodfellows of Belleville and Van Buren Township will be selling newspapers to raise funds for needy families.

Chairman Jerry Maton said the sale will be held Dec. 3 and 4, at all main intersections Volunteers are needed to help.

"We have ordered some 3,000 Goodfellow newspapers, and we're looking for interested people to help us raise funds for food, toys and other items for needy families," Maton said.

Maton, who is a Van Buren Township trustee and has helped the Goodfellows the past 20 years, added that many residents already have offered their services.

As usual, the Van Buren and Belleville police, Van Buren and Belleville firemen, Van Buren-Belleville Jaycees, VFW, Post 4434, elected dity and township officials and many other interested citizens will take part.

But more volunteers still are needed.

Goodfellow headquarters will be at Hoot's Boots, on High Street just off Main Street in Belleville. Those willing to help can contact Maton at 697-8636 or contact other Goodfellows.

Services will be conducted by The Rev. Joy E. Arthur, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Belleville Interment will be at Grand Lawn Cemetery in Detroit.

Hay, who for more than 33 years with the Detroit Fire Department, rose to the rank of captain in 1961, serving in that capacity until 1963, when he retired.

Born in Detroit, Hay later moved to Romulus and was an active member of the F. and A.M. Myrtle Lodge of Belleville.

He is survived by his wife, Mildred; two daughters, Mercedes Wagner of Romulus and Mrs. Edward (Kathleen) Bender of Flat Rock; son Richard of Allen Park; 10 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Medicaid limit hinders teen cancer victim

Belleville and Van Buren Township residents are being asked to show their "Christmas spirit" a little early this year to help a local teen-age girl who may lose one of her legs because of cancer.

Dawn Compau, 14, a student at Belleville's North Junior High School, was driven to New York State last week, where doctors discovered a malignant tumor above her knee.

Mrs. Gordinia Compau, a widowed mother of eight children, has no insurance and was told that Medicaid will not cover the cost of an operation for her daughter because her combined $800 monthly income of veteran's benefits and social security is more than the limit.

Mrs. Compau's other children range in age from 17 to 3.

Van Buren Township officials feel burden to help her in her hour of need.

"Mrs. Compau needs money right now to meet current expenses, and I feel it would be the right thing for the fine people of Van Buren and Belleville to help her," said Van Buren Township Supervisor Pat Cullin yesterday.

A special fund has been set up, and interested persons can send checks or money orders to the Dawn Compau Fund, Van Buren Township Hall, 46425 Tyler, Belleville.

Ed Schroeder, a neighbor of Mrs. Compau's who is active in civic affairs, is helping Mrs. Cullin head up the donation drive.

The Sumpter Social Civic Club and Sumpter Goodfellows already have donated $100, in addition to contributions coming from neighbors and classmates.

Mrs. Cullin said the township attorney informed her that there are two parts to Medicaid coverage, and Mrs. Compau may qualify for Dawn under one of the sections.

Doctors at Sloan Kettering Memorial Hospital in New York are studying whether Dawn's leg will have to be amputated at the knee. Also, a milignant spot was found on one of Dawn's lungs and doctors are hoping it can be treated with radium therapy.

Sloan Hospital has advised Mrs. Compau to contact the Crippled Children's Foundation for possible help.

"In the meantime, I hope everyone in the Belleville-Van Buren Township area will respond with a heart of love and the true 'Christmas Spirit'," Mrs. Cullin said.

'...it would be the right thing ...to help her.'

Museum displays Pittsburgh glass

A major exhibition, "Pittsburgh Glass 1797-1891", has opened at the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn.

More than 200 pieces in 10 categories will be shown, with most coming from the museum's collection and some from public and private sources, including the Corning Museum of Glass in Corning, N.Y.

A glass collector's weekend will be held during the exhibit, which will be open through March 6, 1977.

The exhibition and weekend are being offered in honor of the December publication of "Pittsburgh Glass 1797-1891", written by noted educator, author and collector Lowell Innes of Saco, Maine.

The year 1797 was chosen as the beginning date for the book and exhibition because it was in that year that the first glass making house was established in the Pittsburgh area (New Geneva, Penna.). The later date—1891— was the year a large glass manufacturing combine was formed in the United States, thus completing the industrialization of the process.

The significance of Pittsburgh in terms of the history of glass making was that shortly after the nation was born it became the industry west of the Alleghany Mountains. Transportation limitations made the shipping of glass from the east coast over the mountains impractical.

The Pittsburgh area became the glass making center for the old Midwest—Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia. It was, and still is, one of the two major glass producing centers in the country, the other being the east coast.

Travelers in America in the 19th century found the Pittsburgh glass works worthy of mention in letters and narratives, and Presidents Andrew Jackson and James Monroe both ordered glass service from the Bakewell firm, the best known of the Pittsburgh manufacturers, a museum spokesman said.

The Henry Ford Museum exhibit will offer examples of Pittsburgh glass in each of 10 categories—blown, cut, copper wheel engraved, pattern molded, lacy, pattern, art, flasks and bottles, lamps and novelties.

One of the most interesting pieces to be shown will be an 1825 Bakewell, Page and Bakewell colorless tumbler from a set presented to DeWitt Clinton at the opening of the Erie Canal, the spokesman added. In addition to the engraved "DWC" monogram on the side, the bottom contains a sulfide bust of Clinton.

Another interesting object in the exhibit and one of a type important to Americans of the 19th century is a yellow-amber pint bottle or flask. Typically, these flasks had patriotic or historical events pictured on them. This one has a three-quarter bust of George Washington on the front and a standing eagle and shield on the opposite side.

The museum will sponsor a Glass Collector's Weekend Jan. 28-30 in conjunction with the exhibition. The format will consist of lectures, teas, discussions, a reception and dinner and informal visit to the exhibition with the speakers and museum staff.

There will be no additional charge for the Pittsburgh Glass exhibit beyond the regular Henry Ford Museum admission.

Symphony prepares for annual Yule fest

A full three weeks of varied seasonal offerings, including ballet, pops, puppetry, classical chamber music and Handel's "Messiah"—will be presented by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra during its 1976 Christmas Festival.

Almost every musical taste will be catered to during the festival, to be staged at Ford Auditorium in Detroit, with local and international stars of music and dance appearing in the symphony's 11 Yule performances.

Dancers to be featured include Jacques d'Amboise and Kyra Nichols of the New York Ballet in five full-length performances of Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker", with Dance Detroit—the resident company of Marygrove College—on Dec. 29-31.

Singers include soprano Candace Goetz, contralto Louise Parker, tenor Maurice Stern and bass-baritone Benjamin Matthews as soloists during the Messiah sing-along on Dec 21.

Conductors include DSO conductor-in-residence Paul Freeman, principal pops conductor Richard Hayman, guest conductor Theo Alcantara and violinist-conductor Rafael Druian.

The festival will open Dec. 11 with a pair of Young People's concerts at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., featuring Conductor Freeman and the Pickwick Puppet Theatre in Tchaikovsky's "Sleeping Beauty" ballet. The audience will be invited to join a special holiday songfest to celebrate the season.

At 8:30 p.m. Dec. 17 and 3:30 p.m. Dec. 19, Hayman will present his fourth annual Christmas Pops Concert, featuring the Rackham Symphony Choir.

The annual DSO "Messiah" presentation will follow at 8:30 p.m. Dec. 21, taking on a new sound as Freeman leads soloists chorus and the audience in a Messiah sing-along. Audience members may bring their own musical scores to join in the choruses, purchase a special sing-along score at the concert.

Conductor-violinist Druin will return to Ford Auditorium at 8:30 p.m. Dec. 23 for a concert of seasonal Baroque and 20th century music by the Detroit Symphony Chamber Orchestra. The music of Vivaldi ("Winter), Corelli (Christmas Concerto), Hindemith (suite from the incidental music to ("A Christmas Fantasy") and others will highlight the program.

The DSO 1976 Christmas Festival will wind up during the week between Christmas and New Years with five full-length performances of Tchaikovsky's ballet "The Nutcracker". Special guest dancers d'Amboise and Nichols will head the Dance Detroit Company in a completely staged and costumed production, choreographed by Iacob Lascu and conducted by Alcantara.

The performances include two matinees on Dec. 29 and 30 and three evening performances Dec. 29-31. The New Year's performance will be followed by a special free party in the auditorium's Social Room, with favors, noisemakers and dancing to the music of the Eric Rosenow Band. A no-host bar will be open until 2 p.m.

Tickets for the 1976 Christmas Festival events are available at the Ford Auditorium Box Office, which can be reached at 961-0700.

Traveling exhibit returns to museum

The traveling exhibit, "Industrial Heritage USA", has returned to Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn for the months of November and December, following a 2-month tour of eight U.S. cities.

Developed by Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum in cooperation with 26 industrial organizations, the exhibit illustrates the dramatic changes in American life that have resulted for the ingenious inventions in industry, commerce and agriculture in the 200 years since the founding of the United States.

Hundreds of artifacts have been selected from the collections of the village and museum for the exhibits which trace America's industrial progress by contrasting the products of the past with those of today. Individual showcase center on the evolution of such diverse areas as home entertainment, home lighting, the bath, the kitchen, farm equipment, clothing and electrical power.

"Industrial Heritage USA" opened to the public for the first time at the museum in July 1974. Since then it has been seen in 76 major metropolitan areas throughout the country.

Planned to close this year with the conclusion of the American Bicentennial celebration, the exhibit will be on the road again in January on an extended tour of 32 American cities, returning to the museum in November 1977.

There is no additional charge to view "Industrial Heritage USA" at the museum through Dec. 31 beyond the regular museum admission fee.

Lead poison work will be continued

The lead poisoning prevention program, which protects preschoolers, will continue for a fourth consecutive year in Wayne County, following an application by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners for more federal funds.

A proposed grant from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) was approved by the commissioners Nov. 18, and will provide $162,542 of federal funds for the project for another full year.

The lead poisoning prevention program administers blood tests to screen children for lead content and is intended to eliminate or reduce lead dangers in residential dwellings.

In target areas approved by HEW, the program is concentrated on children aged 1 through 5 years who live in swellings built before 1950.

Houses and apartment buildings constructed during this period are considered a chief source of poisoning because of lead-based paint on walls and woodwork that youngsters often chew.

The program includes a complete evaluation of all housing units where children are discovered with hazardous lead absorption levels.

Most affected children are discovered by door-to-door contact, although some are referred to the prevention program by the Medicaid or the County PRESCAD programs.

In door-to-door contact, health workers try a minimum of four times to reach parents in each home. When contact is made, the dangers of lead poisoning are explained, and parents are asked for permission to pinprick each child's finger for a blood sample for later analysis.

Children found with elevated lead levels are referred to hospitals for treatment, and a public health sanitarian thereafter contacts homeowners or landlords and recommends measures to eliminate or lessen the lead danger.

Lead poisoning in children can cause brain damage, retardation, seizures, blingness, kidney problems, learning disability and even death.

More than 100,000 eligible children are within the jurisdiction of the County Health Department which administers the lead poisoning prevention program.

According to reports published when the program began, Wayne County contains about 142,000 swelling units known to have lead-based paint on walls and woodwork, and there are about 20,000 eligible children living in pre-1950 homes.

The program applies only to out-county areas not affected by a similar program in effect within the City of Detroit only.

Macrame program offered at center

The Ypsilanti Center of Washtenaw Community College will be offering a special workshop in macrame in two sessions on Dec. 3 and 10 from 7 to 10 p.m.

Aets and crafts instructor Zane Olukalns will be teaching the classes, which will be held at 214 N. Huron St.

The participants will receive instruction in various knots, techniques, materials and designs for making belts, wall hangings, plant holders and hammocks. Creativity, inventiveness and enjoyment will be stressed. Materials will be provided for the workshop.

The fee for the program is $5; senior citizens, however, will be admitted free of charge.

Advance registration is requested and can be made by calling 482-2230.

Accuracy in media

Should media's influence be reduced?

By REED IRVINE

WASHINGTON — A recently published survey has come up with startling confirmation of charges that the news media have too much power and that the reporters and editors tend to be far more liberal than the general public.

The survey was a joint project of The Washington Post and the Harvard University Center for International Affairs. More than 300 journalists were interviewed by means of lengthy mail questionnaires. Sixty percent worked for newspapers, and the rest worked for radio or television. About half were headquartered in Washington, D. C., and the other half were newspaper managing editors and radio and TV news directors.

The Washington-based reporters classfied themselves overwhelmingly as liberal. Fifty-nine percent described themselves as liberals, and 61 percent said that they had voted for McGovern for President in 1972. Only 18 percent classified themselves as conservatives, and 22 percent said they had voted for Nixon in 1972. In that election, Nixon won 61 percent of the popular vote, while McGovern took 38 percent. A Harris poll published in January, 1976, indicated that 43 percent of the American people wanted to see the country move in a more conservative direction, compared to 19 percent who favored a more liberal course. Twenty percent did not favor moving either way.

The Washington-based journalists are clearly not representative of the views of the general public. The news managers tended to be older and somewhat less liberal. Forty percent described themselves as liberals against 17 percent who said they were conservatives. Forty-three percent said they were "moderates." Forty-four percent of this group voted for McGovern against 39 percent that voted for Nixon. The liberal-conservative line-up of this group is just the opposite of the distribution the Harris poll found in the public at large.

These findings give strong support to the complaints of conservatives that the news media tend to be strongly liberal and fail to give conservative views a fair shake. Those who point to the fact that the newspapers overwhelmingly endorsed Nixon over McGovern in 1972 to rebut charges of liberal bias are failing to distinguish between those who control the editorials and those who control the news. The publisher may dictate which candidates the paper will support in its editorials. He is unlikely to exercise much control over the way in which the news is presented.

The survey found that the media group were pretty well satisfied with their performance. Eighty percent disagreed with that statement, but 75 percent of the businessmen and farm leaders surveyed agreed with the statement. About 40 percent of the general public agreed, while 60 percent did not.

Perhaps the most striking finding of this survey was the widespread agreement that the news media exercise greater influence than people think they should. Even the media group indicated that the media influence ought to be reduced. Unlike other leadership groups that were covered in this survey, the journalists thought the influence of their own group was very high. Business leaders, farm leaders, blacks, feminists and political operatives all felt that their group was low in influence but that it ought to be higher. Only the journalists ranked their group high in influence and thought that it ought to be lower.

The nearly 2,500 leaders surveyed representing these various groups ranked the media No. 1 in influence. They thought it should be reduced substantially.

As we see it

Fixed sentencing for crimes has our endorsement

Few countries permit as much flexibility as the United States in methods of criminal punishment.

A glaring inconsistency in punishing criminals has consistently drawn the ire of Wayne County Prosecutor William Cahalan.

He steadfastly has been advocating a system whereby the punishment should fit the crime. It is such a simple solution to the inequitable way our criminal justice system is structured today that the average mind cannot comprehend why this has not been done years ago.

But for all the response Cahalan's pleas have received he might have well been talking to the man in the moon.

We feel it's about time that somebody listen and then do something about it. That somebody is the Michigan Legislature—and it can take the step that will label criminals the third-class citizens they really are and do away with the "first-class" status seemingly accorded them today by our judicial system.

Cahalan, bless him, just won't give up. Last week he told a gathering of members of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce that the "certainty of punishment, in the form of mandatory minimum sentences, is a deterrent to crime."

What Cahalan is espousing is, of course, true. It has been proven dramatically in other states — Florida for one.

Fixed sentences for certain crimes is not a new proposal. It has been discussed many times, but the legislature for one reason or another has failed to take any initiative in introducing laws making it happen.

Cahalan says that equal protection under the law is scrupulously applied throughout the entire arrest and trial procedure, but the most crucial part of the proceedings—the sentencing—is left to the whim and caprice of a judge.

Cahalan insists that citizens, you and me, although we cannot control many of the causes of crimes, can do something about deterring crime by pushing for mandatory minimum prison terms.

Only crimes of murder, armed robbery and treason now carry mandatory minimum sentences. But what about other violent crimes, such as aggravated assault, rape and burglary?

The county prosecutor says that 65 percent of all persons convicted of a felony never lose one moment of their freedom. They walk out of court with probation or a suspended sentence.

We agree with Cahalan that a dangerous flaw in our system is allowing a judge the sole discretion in sentencing.

When it comes to the so-called violent crimes, judges should not be able to determine the penalty.

To many times first-offenders as well as second and third offenders are set free with little more than a wrist slap. We believe first offenders should suffer the full stroke of the law, especially if they have committed a violent crime.

The whole reason for mandatory minimum or fixed sentences is to keep that person from committing his or her first crime. This is the deterrent we are sure will work if it is clearly understood that the certainty of punishment awaits the offender.

Behind the developing concensus concerning fixed sentencing is a recognition that our prisons do not rehabilitate and that parole has become a device to relieve overcrowding in our prisons.

Cahalan wants Michigan's citizens to change the justice system and one way is to sign a petition presently being circulated. The other way is for citizens to contact their legislators and let them know they want appropriate laws passed.

Our criminal justice system has not done the job it is supposed to do. We believe that making the punishment fit the crime is clearly an important step in restoring credibility to Michigan's—and America's—criminal justice system.

On the brighter side

A visit to death row

By JIM BRADLEY
Enterprise-Roman Staff Writer

Tom sat on death row.

He didn't believe in capital punishment, but here he was spending his last hours after being sentenced to death. He paced back and forth in the prison yard not knowing when the final blow would come.

I watched him closely, noticing him fidget nervously. He was one among many sentenced to this place of execution.

Tom was big and strong and had lived a fairly decent life. I wasn't sure the death decree had been entirely fair, so I visited him to get his side of the story. Interviewing him was difficult, but you can learn quite a bit just from watching one's actions. He continued to pace back and forth.

It seemed a shame that he would lose his life just as everyone was enjoying the holiday. I tried to picture him in death, still of body, entering another world. The man who guarded the gate eyed me suspiciously and rarely ever took his glance off those on death row.

Tom's food still lay on his tray getting cold. I offered it to him, but after taking a few bites, he turned and walked away.

He didn't seem to trust me, even though I had come for the express purpose of helping him escape the death penalty.

The gate guard walked over to the bench where I sat and eased down beside me. I had to ask about Tom.

"Is it true that Tom is scheduled to die today?"

"If not today, he'll be executed tomorrow," he answered.

"Don't you feel guilty with his blood on your hands?"

"No, not guilty, but it is a messy business," he admitted.

Attempting one last effort to speak with Tom, I walked over and put my hand on his head. "How do you feel about dying?" I asked him.

"I'm as innocent as can be. I'm unjustly sentenced to die," he replied. He paced back and forth, his head twitching with each step. "Not only do they arbitrarily sentence me to suffer death, they seem to take great delight in it. Why, they even seem to have a festive atmosphere about it."

I agreed with him. I took the lonely path back to the prison farm gate and looked longingly back at Tom. It was the last time I would see him alive. He would be dead before midnight.

My feelings went out to him and his plight, but my mercenary feelings must have gotten the best of me, for I agreed to the slaying of Tom. I was as guilty as any of the others in society who condemned this helpless, innocent one to death.

And the next time I saw him, Tom Turkey was dressed superbly, surrounded by cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes and all the trimmings on the Thanksgiving table.

Consumer Comment

Credit ratings are important

By Linda Joy, Executive Director—Michigan Consumers Council

If you have ever applied for credit, or made a purchase with some form of credit instrument, your name is probably listed with one or more credit reporting agencies. These agencies are actually an industry within themselves. Their main purpose is to provide information to retail and wholesale merchants concerning the bill-paying ability and record of credit-using consumers. In order to operate at a profit, the reporting bureau sells this information to its customers, usually creditors. Often these creditors are members of one or more reporting services.

But enough about basic structure. There are important facts you should know if you use the services of a credit reporting agency. First, the integrity of your credit rating is important—so don't listen to those who may tell you not to be concerned. Second, there are several things you may do to protect your rating.

There are two main types of credit reports: the consumer report, and the investigative consumer report. The first is conducted by the credit bureau itself and pertains primarily to a consumer's creditworthiness, character, general reputation, and style of living. This report is used for the purpose of establishing one's eligibility for credit, insurance, or employment purposes. The investigative consumer report contains similar information but is obtained by outside investigators from personal interviews with neighbors, friends, or associates of the consumer. This type of report doesn't include information specifically related to facts about the consumer's credit record.

Obviously, there is a great amount of information about people in a reporting service's files. The Federal Fair Credit Reporting Act assures these agencies supply only factual, current information. Basically, the responsibility of maintaining accuracy lies with both the agency and with the consumer. This is a fairly simple procedure.

If you have been denied credit within the last 30 days, you have the right to examine your credit file at the reporting bureau. There is no charge for this provided you make the request within those 30 days. Upon examination of your file, if you find information which you believe to be incorrect, you may dispute that information. The reporting agency must then reinvestigate and record the current status of that information. If, after the investigation, the agency finds the information to be inaccurate, or cannot verify that information, the agency must delete it from your report.

If the reinvestigation does not resolve the dispute, you should file with the agency a brief statement stating the nature of your dispute. Whenever you do this, the agency must include your statement in any new report on you. If your report information is either disputed or inaccurate, you can request that corrected statements be furnished to anyone you desire who, within the past two years, has received your report for employment purposes or, within six months prior, requested a report for any other purpose. In other words, this gives you the opportunity to "clear your record" of misinformation previously furnished to others.

If you wish to check your credit record but have not applied or been denied credit within the last 30 days, the credit reporting bureau then has the right to charge a "reasonable" fee for this information (often about $2).

When checking your credit record look for good as well as unfavorable items: bill-paying history, employment record, etc. This will enable you to more accurately determine which of your activities reflects your current credit status.

Ask the governor

How do we control medicaid costs?

QUESTION: What can be done to control the rising Medicaid costs?

GOVERNOR: It is imperative that all of us realize controlling Medicaid costs is a Michigan problem and its solution requires all persons, providers and consumers to dedicate themselves to holding the line on Medicaid costs. I have been encouraged and impressed with the cooperation the state has received from providers in containment measures.

Although fraud within the system is only a small part of the total problem, it must be sought out and eliminated.

Steps must be taken either by consumers and providers or by governmental regulation to insure proper utilization of facilities and services. Presently, the reimbursement structure for the medical delivery system does not offer incentives for economizing by cutting back on utilization. Public policy must not only promote but require and reward consumers and providers for decreased utilization.

The provider organizations and the state government have agreed to several procedures that should help control the costs. These include the establishment of onsite program reviews in up to 20 hospitals which are the highest utilizers of Medicaid, establishment of pre-admission testing procedures for all Medicaid patients, and a policy under which hospitals must obtain payments from third-party potential payment sources where available before billing the Medicaid program.

The creation of the Statewide Health Coordinating Council will provide a means to set priorities for facilities and services and minimize the overlapping of expensive facilities and equipment.

QUESTION: I understand that the task force which studied how to make our state government more efficient and cut down on the cost of government has made its report. Will the recommendations be implemented?

GOVERNOR: The Michigan Efficiency Task Force submitted its report to me last week. The final report contains more than 560 recommendations on ways to make more efficient use of tax dollars, reduce costs and improve the efficiency of state government. All departments and agencies of state government were reviewed. Recommendations ranged from elimination of front license plates to consolidating intermediate school districts.

Although I support the intent and scope of this report, I wish to make it clear that there may be some recommendations that I question or even disagree with.

I have asked that each department head review the recommendations that apply specifically to his or her department and report on the feasibility of the recommendations to me by Dec. 10. The implementation phase is expected to begin after I have received those feasibility reports. The Department of Management and Budget will assist in the implementation of this project.

Following departmental and executive office review, all recommendations that are reasonable and in the public interest will have my full support. I am confident that government can make good use of many of these findings.

Van Buren policemen lauded

To the editor:

We would like to thank the Van Buren Police Department, especially Sgt. Rafalski and Patrolman Ramsey.

They rushed me and my grandchild, nine-month-old William P. Gillingham, to Wayne County General Hospital with a possible concussion when he fell down our basement stairs on Oct 25.

His mother had our car and was attending night school and his grandfather was in Ohio due to illness in the family.

What I also would like to comment on was that other drivers don't seem to know enough to pull over and let an emergency vehicle through when the siren is wailing and the lights are flashing.

We would really like to let the Van Buren Police Department know that their kindness and help were greatly appreciated.

Part of reunion

Puppet talk

Scout Matthew Maner (left) and Sean Vernatt had something in common when they shared a few minutes chatter with a member of the Meredith Marionette troupe of Saline, Mich. The puppets were at Hayti Elementary School in Romulus last week as part of a PTA-sponsored puppet show. It introduced students to the magic world of marionettes, who took the children into fairyland with their stringed antics. — ANP photo.

Heating bills climb as cold continues

Consumers Power Company's natural gas customers are going to find that their November bills may be substantially higher than normal because of the continuing abnormally cold weather, according to E. A. Waggener, metro region general manager.

Waggener suggested that customers be especially watchful for wasteful energy practices in order to keep fuel consumption and their bills as low as possible.

"The past 30 days through Nov. 15 have been 48 percent colder than normal," Waggener said, "and 114 percent colder than the same period last year."

The unusual cold is readily apparent from the amount of natural gas distributed by the company in the last 30 days, he said. "Through Nov. 15 we've sent out 38.6 billion cubic feet of gas compared to 24.4 billion cubic feet last year."

Because of differing levels of gas consumption by individual customers and because the period covered will vary depending on when a customer's meter was read, Waggener was unable to estimate the impact of the cold weather on an average bill.

He noted that the weather during November has been even worse than was the unusually cold October which Michigan experienced.

"We've had 438 'degree days' thus far in November," Waggener said, "compared to a norm of 333 for this 15-day period. This is 32 percent above normal. There were 562 degree days during October, compared to a normal 377, a 49-percent increase."

A degree day is a measurement of cold weather computed by subtracting the mean daily outdoor temperature from 65, the temperature at which space heating is normally turned on.

Waggener said that customers who take steps to conserve energy can help limit the amount of their energy bills. Among the day-to-day measures he suggested are dialing down the thermostat, limiting the number of times outside doors are opened and closing off the heat registers to rooms which are not used regularly.

With the continuing cold and the increased energy consumption during the holiday season, Waggener pointed out that customers who practice energy conservation will save themselves from even higher bills.

MRS. TOM KIRKLIN

Grace Baptist Church site for Kirklin-Fox ceremony

Since returning from a week-long honeymoon in the Smoky Mountains, the newly wed Tom Kirklins have taken up residence at 6012 Lake Dr., Ypsilanti.

Judith Ann Fox, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Mazur of 13841 Sumpter Rd., Carleton, formerly of Belleville, became Mrs. Kirklin on Oct. 30.

Pastor Jay Fraiser presided at the double ring rite at Grace Baptist Church of Belleville where over 100 relatives and friends had assembled for the occasion.

For the 6 p.m. ceremony the altar was appointed with pale green mums and pink gladiolas which carried out the color scheme of the wedding.

Entering the church with her father, the bride appeared in a gown of white chiffon and satin designed in the A-line mode with delicate lace appliqued on the hem of the skirt and chapel train. The lace motif was repeated on the little fitted bodice which featured a rounded neckline and bishop sleeves cuffed at the wrist.

The blusher tier on her chapel-length veil of silk illusion, outlined with sculptured lace appliques, was caught to a cap of lace. A spray of red roses, white pom pons, baby's breath and evergreens was centered with a detachable corsage to complete her bridal finery.

Red roses, baby's breath and evergreens were carried by the bride's two attendants, Debbie Heuser of Belleville, the matron of honor, and Lisa Smith of Ypsilanti. Wearing identically styled frocks, Mrs. Heuser was in lace-trimmed mint green with puffed sleeves while Miss Smith was in pink. Their matching hats were trimmed with filmy veiling.

The bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kirklin of 10850 Morton Taylor Rd., Belleville, asked his brother, Timothy Kirklin of Belleville, to serve as best man. Butch Gohl of Romulus was groomsman.

Child attendants at the wedding were 3-year-old Lisa Lavon Merritt, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sparks and 5-year-old Dianne Ramsey and her brother, Richard, four, the children of Mr. and Mrs. David Ramsey. The two flowergirls donned white dotted swiss frocks with bonnets to match and carried baskets filled with Piccardy roses, green and pink pom pons, baby's breath and evergreen.

At the reception in the church's Fellowship Hall following the ceremony, the bride's mother received in a pale green floor-length gown with long sleeves while Mrs. Kirklin, the bridegroom's mother, chose to wear a long-sleeved pink formal dress. Both were presented with corsages of Piccardy roses, evergreens and baby's breath.

Among those congratulating the young couple were the bride's aunt, Mrs. Lovie Laster of Malden, Mo., and her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Mac Devor of Drayton Plains.

The new Mrs. Kirklin graduated from Belleville High School in 1975 where her husband received his diploma in 1973. Prior to her marriage she was employed at K-Mart in the Lakewood Shopping Center. The bridegroom is an employee of Hydra-Matic Division of General Motors at Willow Run.

The bride's sister, Wanda Arquette entertained at the rehearsal party held at 6012 Lake Dr., Ypsilanti.

Investiture ceremony held by Girl Scout Troop No. 369

Junior Girl Scout Troop No. 369 held its annual investiture and rededication ceremony on Nov. 23 at the Lemontree Clubhouse. The program opened with a flag ceremony. Three large candles were then lit which, it was explained, symbolized the three parts of the Girl Scout promise.

As the new scouts and "fly-up" Brownies came forth in pairs, troop leader Mrs. Barbara Scarano asked each girl what Scouting means to her. Each pair then crossed the "bridge", representing their transition into the Junior Scout troop, lit a candle repeating one of the 10 Girl Scout laws, and were presented their trefoil membership pins by their parents.

"Fly-up" Brownies entering the troop were Sandy Anderson, Laurie Burgess, Dawn Carrollo, Denise Clem, Renee Evers, Melissa Florian, Tricia Karolyi, Sandy Kohr, Teresa Komorami, Lisa Scarano, Melissa Trevorrow and Dawn Zajac.

New scouts joining the troop were Kelly Akans, Tammy Glogouski, Tammy Parr, Jennifer Stoyenoff, Kathy Wriggley, Leesa Wisecarver and Kim Wilson.

The assistant leader, Mrs. Mary Anderson welcomed each girl into the troop assisted by the previous troop members Janice Burgess, DeAnn Clem, Lisa Daroci, Jacqueline DeFransisco, Vicki Donnelly, Bridget Florian, Pam Florian, Erin Gutierrez, Cathi Hable, Jill Karolyi, Jane Kause, Lisa Kelly, Cindy Savage and Angela Sheppard.

The troop of 33 girls is divided into six patrols under which the group functions and learns to be self-governing. The new patrol leaders Janice Burgess, Lisa Daroci, Erin Gutierrez, Jill Karolyi, Jane Kause and Melissa Trevorrow, were presented their leader cords by their assistants. The formal portion of the ceremony was followed by a play about camping.

Refreshments were prepared and served by the Blue Jay Patrol. All other portions of the event were planned and carried out by the remaining five patrols.

Mrs. Janice Mullen is working with the girls to earn merit badges. Each patrol is currently studying about a different country. They will learn a dance, cook a native food, investigate scouting in that country and learn and play a game of the area.

Other troop activites include the current preparation of food baskets for needy families as Thanksgiving Day presents and making plans for an upcoming field trip to Greenfield Village to view Christmas decorations of another era.

Quotes worth quoting--

"I don't think the Lord wants any pompous proclamation of thanks on one Thursday in November as much as He wants a little humble service from us every day of the year."

Burtan Hills said it.

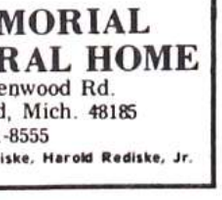
"Why did Grandpa die?"



Harold Rediske

Do you explain it away with a fairy tale? Do you tell him that God called him away? Or do you answer truthfully, but simply, so that the child relates his Grandpa's death to, perhaps, flowers which live, grow, wither and ultimately die?
If the child is offered a fairy tale, he'll accept it — for now. But, like all fairy tales, they have a way to remaining make-believe for but a short while. And then how do you face the child? Can you keep his trust after that? Perhaps. Perhaps not.
If you tell the child that God has called Grandpa away, you may be sincere, but philosophy and theology are not usually within a youngster's understanding. And what is there to dispel the notion that "God may again call" — taking away his mother, his father?

Relate to flowers

It might be better to explain how flowers grow and bloom, then wither and die. This concept is understandable to the child because it's a fact he can grasp. One he has witnessed. "Flowers," you may explain, "don't live a long time. But we like them and we remember them. Grandpa lived a long time. Remember the good times you had with Grandpa. But like the flowers, he, too, died. We loved him — and we'll remember him with love, won't we?"
You can expect many questions. Answer them simply. The young child needs to understand that what has happened is a natural course of events, like the seasons and the sun's rising and setting...that he is part of the family, sharing and understanding...that his own sadness is shared and understood.

One-stop beauty routine

Boutique provides 'total look' in hair, clothes and makeup

With today's fashion emphasis on the total look from that just right hair style to the perfect outfit, Western Wayne County women are finding they can achieve that new look in one stop at the Beauty Boutique.

Whether it be a busy career woman that needs evening hours for her 1-stop total look or a homemaker who needs a lift with either a sauna, hairdo or beauty consultation, the staff is there to help.

Opened by Elvera Dobozy, the wife of Westland barber John Dobozy, the Beauty Boutique offers fashions and hair care as part of its services.

According to Mrs. Dobozy, the atmosphere is friendly, and clients or potential clients are encouraged to stop by for coffee and a chat or to browse through the collection of fashions and accessories the shop stocks.

"To build our clientele we have many specials to offer that no one can beat," Mrs. Dobozy said, adding that she is horrified to hear someone speak of a $17 hair cut they're not happy with".

Staffing the boutique is Barb Kochik who encourages customers to bring in clippings, since "you may walk out looking like Farah Faucett Majors". Tomi Wycoff, a native of Japan, has the most experience of the staff in hair styling, specializing in the curly look, and long-haired Bobbie Almon naturally enjoys working with long tresses. And rounding out the staff is Gail Harvey who enjoys creative styles and coloring.

Beauty consultant Shirley Gysen then steps in, helping customers achieve that perfect look through makeup techniques and coloring.

Mrs. Dobozy, who married her husband in Germany in 1956, offers special prices for senior citizens.

Located next to "his shop"—her husband's barber shop — the Beauty Boutique is open for business at 244 N. Wayne Road north of Cherry Hill Road in Westland.

Before and after

Sandy Magdowski of Belleville may not have realized what a total makeover involves, but when it was all over she was full of smiles. She started out her visit to the Beauty Boutique in Westland with a thorough body cleansing in the facility's sauna, then with coaching from stylist Barb Kochik (above photo) she tried out a new hair style, the swept-back look. The before and after of the makeover shows off her new look as well as the makeup tips offered by beauty consultant Shirley Gysen. She added a new outfit to the makeover coming out with the total look (bottom photo.)

Books are great gifts—but read a few before deciding

New books continue to arrive at our local libraries each week, circulation being a major factor in the eligibility for new tomes. The more books checked out— the better the chances of seeing that latest bestseller on the shelves.

In the event you have a book in mind as a Christmas gift, you might like to visit the Romulus or Belleville libraries to see what looks and sounds interesting. Better still, read a few books yourself before purchasing that murder mystery, historical novel or biography you've considered as a possible present.

Light and lemony

A congenial dessert – easy to prepare and winner for the hostess – Lemon Cloud Pie. Light as a cloud as the name implies. Thawed non-dairy whipped topping is folded into the filling and also swirled into a garnish. Tart and refreshing, this pie finale should bring a round of second servings at any holiday dessert buffet.

Holiday dessert— light as a cloud

With holiday entertaining gaining momentum, it's a joy to discover a congenial dessert; one that's easy to prepare and a winner for you, the hostess. Above all, convenience and versatility in foods is a major interest during the holiday rush. This is where Lemon Cloud Pie enters the scene as the perfect compliment to meals. A tart, refreshing flavor combines with a light texture -- as light as the name "cloud" implies. Even after the most progressive feasting from appetizer through main course, this unique fluffy pie is a pleasant conclusion. Thawed Birds Eye Cool Non-Dairy Whipped Topping is folded into the lemon juice mixture and also used as a garnish to complete the dessert finale.

To make your pie creation even easier, use a packaged pie crust mix or a frozen pie shell. Let the whipped topping provide the good-tasting, smooth texture both as an ingredient as well as a garnish. This is where versatility shows itself.

Today's traditional dessert collection includes serving suggestions stressing convenience and imagination. Plan on a few dessert buffets. They're easy to hostess and a fabulous way to assemble friends. Along with Lemon Cloud Pie, set up a tray of fancy cookies and bite-size pieces of fresh fruit for guests to savor with a Chocolate Dip made by folding ¼ cup chocolate syrup into one container (4-½-oz.) thawed whipped topping. Enjoy this dessert dividend with steaming freshly brewed coffee.

Lemon Cloud Pie

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¾ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup water
1-3 cup lemon juice
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1-½ teaspoons grated lemon rind
2 cups (or one 4-½-oz. container) frozen whipped topping, thawed
1 baked 9-inch pie shell, cooled

Mix gelatin, sugar, and salt in saucepan. Add water and lemon juice. Blend in egg yolks. Place over medium heat and cook, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved—about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and add lemon rind. Chill until slightly thickened. Place bowl of gelatin in larger bowl of ice and water. Whip with electric mixer or rotary beater until about double in volume. Blend in 1-½ cups of the whipped topping; pour into pie shell. Chill until firm —3 to 4 hours. Garnish with remaining whipped topping and a slice of lemon, if desired.

MCF offering yule greeting postcards

The greeting card sales program of the Michigan Cancer Foundation (MCF) is offering something new for budget-conscious consumers this year.

A post card has been introduced to help beat the rising postage costs of traditional greeting cards, and now is on sale at all nine MCF Unit offices. The post cards also are suited to serve as holiday party invitations.

MCF greeting cards provide a "special gift of hope" to thousands of cancer patients and their families in the Detroit metropolitan community. Proceeds from their sales are used in direct support of the foundation's programs of cancer research, screening and detection, cancer education, and patient care and rehabilitation.

The post cards are packaged 25 per set and sell for $2.50. Two traditional greeting cards also are available at $4.50 per box of 25 cards and 25 matching colored envelopes. Imprinting is available on all styles for a small additional charge.

December 1 is the deadline for ordering imprinted cards.

A set of note cards, useful for personnel correspondence, is being offered throughout the year. "Nature Notes" come packaged in a set of eight pastel cards and envelopes of assorted designs for $1.

To order MCF greeting cards, post cards or note cards, or to request an order form, call the MCF Western Wayne Unit at 565-1440 weekdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., or stop by the office, located at 1112 N. Telegraph, Dearborn.

Locally, the greeting cards are available immediately by contacting co-chairman Mrs. Clyde Fitch at 721-1372, or Mrs. George Horak at 721-5225.

Students at Merriman Elementary School in Romulus donned their winter clothing to head outside last week as part of a career education program at the school. Students were all ears as blacksmith Dave Hogan explained his art. The program introduces students to the wide spectrum of jobs available as well as what is required to obtain such work. And Hogan, to show off his duties as a blacksmith, naturally brought along a horse to serve as his model. — ANP photos.

Officials tell parents to pick toys carefully

With the official start of the Christmas season just a day away, safety officials are advising parents to be selective in their purchase of toys for youngsters this year.

Representatives of the Red Cross advise parents to examine toys carefully for built in safety and to make sure the item is durable enough to stand up to rough treatment.

Things to watch for in selecting toys is wood that can splinter, sharp-edged metal, plastic that can break and leave sharp edges and stuffed dolls and animals with glass or plastic button eyes that come off and can be swallowed by a young child.

Toys also should be handled with care, they said. Play stoves, metal-molding devices and wood burning gadgets powered by electricity get hot enough to give painful burns. Electriccal toys should carry the UL (Underwriters Laboratories) test label.

And with Christmas trees cropping up in homes throughout Western Wayne County, the Red Cross has several pointers on keeping a fresh Christmas tree from turning into a blazing torch.

Make sure your tree is fresh. If the needles fall off at the touch, the tree is too dry. Keep the tree fresh by making a new diagonal cut about two inches from the bottom and placing it in a stand with a water-filled container. Replace the water as it evaporates.

Do not set a tree near a fireplace, stove or refrigerator.

Use non-flammable decorations. Check all electrical decorations for frayed, cracked or worn insulation and inspect the plug for damage. Electrical fixtures should carry the approval label of the Underwriters Laboratory.

Be sure not to overload electrical circuits. Disconnect the tree lights before leaving the house or retiring at night.

Stage Band swings at Romulus High

Romulus Senior High Stage Band, under the direction of Ralph Miller, really is swinging these days.

In addition to playing the popular rock and roll of the present day, the 16-member musical group also performs the Big Band sounds of the 1930s and '40s.

Besides readying for their annual winter concert on Dec. 16, the Stage Band is staying in tune by providing entertainment for special events, schools and convalescent homes.

"I'm very proud of the band and feel they've done a fine job," Miller said in praising the group. "With the severe financial cutbacks we've had, we'd like as many as possible to support our activies."

Included in the Stage Band's itinerary was providing entertainment for the recent Big-Time Wrestling benefit show at Romulus High and playing for convalescent homes in Wayne and Taylor.

The musical group is available to perform in the Romulus community, and those interested in obtaining the band's services can contact Miller at Romulus High School at 941-2170.

Trombonists are Andy Pitman, Ruben Torres, Aaron Chandler and Jim Burcroff, while Brian Ruark and Rick Smith handle percussion.

Caution is password for holiday weekend

Moderation and common sense should be the password to safety for the 102-hour Thanksgiving holiday season, one of the most dangerous periods in the state for auto travel, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Sixteen persons lost their lives during last year's holiday period, with an average of 24 deaths each of the last four years.

To reduce the death toll during the 4-day period, the Auto Club is advising motorists driving near home to avoid alcoholic beverages, since 75 percent of the holiday traffic deaths occur within 25 miles of home.

The holiday officially will get underway at 6 o'clock tonight and run until 12 a.m. Sunday.

The Auto Club's recommendations for hosts and holiday travelers to make Thanksgiving the safest holiday ever include:

— Restrict 1-day, roundtrips by car to no more than 200 miles and plan to be home by dusk.

— If driving, remember the "One for One" Rule. It takes one hour for the average person to assimilate one ounce of alcohol. Two ounces of alcohol in an hour double chances of a fatal accident.

— Hosts should stop serving alcohol an hour before guests depart and serve a meal or snacks.

And the Auto Club has some tips for residents who will be heading into Detroit tomorrow morning to view the 50th J.L. Hudson Co.'s Thanksgiving Day Parade.

The club advises parade watchers to plan arriving in the city at least one hour before the 9:20 a.m. start to find a good viewing point. The 1-hour parade is expected to draw an estimated 500,000 people.

Meeting the people

Teachers from Barth Elementary School in Romulus decided to make it easier on parents to check up on their youngsters' progress in the classroom last week by moving their parent-teacher conferences to the clubhouse of the Oakbrook Townhouses. The move proved to be a winner as parents flocked to the clubhouse to confer with several teachers. At right Mrs. Gloria Apagar and Rose Raspberry confer during the afternoon talk. — ANP photos.

Snow shoveling: could cause tragedy

A seasonal snowfall may be a delight to youngsters who revel in bounding through white drifts or sleighing down powdered slopes.

That's fine for the younger set, but for residents who are middle-aged and don't get much exercise, take care, advises the Michigan Heart Association. What's fun for children, could be fatal to you.

Every winter, a heavy snowfall is followed heart attack deaths due to over-exertion, warned association representatives.

If you're past 40 years of age, desk-bound at the office and spend most weekends watching television, think twice before grabbing a shovel to clear your sidewalk or driveway of snow.

According to the Heart Association, the body reacts to cold by constricting its small arteries, through which blood passes away from the heart to various parts of the body. This natural response—peripheral-vaso constriction—reduces loss of body heat and when it takes place, the heart must work harder to pump blood through the narrowed arteries. Its load is further increased because the arteries which feed the heart itself are constricted as well.

Additional stress occurs when the blood pressure rises, which sometimes happens in cold weather, or when the person exercises.

It is for these reasons that cold weather brings with it a need for special precautions, the Heart Association recommended.

So when it comes to shovelling snow, here are a few precautions.

— If you have heart disease, don't shovel without your doctor's permission.

— If you're over 40 years of age, be careful, even if you are healthy.

— Don't smoke during the period you shovel. Smoking causes constriction of blood vessels as cold air does. The combination could be lethal.

— Don't shovel to the point of exhaustion. Fatigue is a further strain on the heart.

— Dress warmly in light, thin layers of clothing; muffle ears and throat and keep hands and feet dry.

— Each shoveful of dry snow weighs about 4 pounds and wet snow is much heavier. When you shovel, lift with your entire body, keeping your back straight.

— If you run out of breath, pause until breathing is easier. If you feel tightness in your chest, quit.

Those are guidelines to shovelling snow, and now here are the warning signs of a heart attack.

— Prolonged, heavy pressure of squeezing pain in the center of the chest, behind the breastbone.

— Pain which may spread to the shoulder, arm, neck or jaw.

— Pain, or discomfort, accompanied by sweating. Nausea, vomiting or shortness of breath also may occur.

— Symptoms may subside or return.

If you recognize these warning signs don't panic, the Heart Association advises. Try to relax and think clearly. Get help immediately. Call your doctor, the police or a hospital emergency room at once. Half of all heart attack deaths occur before the victim gets to a hospital.

Survey to ask residents opinion on Postal Service

Romulus residents will have a chance to tell the U.S. Postal Service what they think of their community's mail service as part of a nationwide service by the Post Office

The Postal Service is undertaking the survey, which will span a period of 15 months of interviews, to determine how well it is serving the needs of the American public and to ascertain the various uses to which the mail service is put.

Families in the Romulus community will be selected scientifically by their addresses to be interviewed by Mrs. Evelyn Norris, a member of the University of Michigan Survey Research Center, which wil be conducting the interviews.

The selected residents will be asked for their opinions about the Postal Service and about the type of mail (bill, advertisements, parcels, etc.) which they send and receive.

Part of the survey will involve postal personnel recording the classes and subclasses of mail going to the households which have agreed to participate in the study. Recorded will be the other postal markings and physical characteristics which are obvious from the outside of mail pieces. No mail will be opened or delayed.

The data collected will be analyzed by social scientists at the university, and the results will be furnished in a statistical form. Information on the forms will be such that nothing can be traced to any individual or address.

Seniors 'go Dutch'

Senior citizens in the Belleville community recently took an armchair journey to the land of wooden shoes, Holland, in a travelogue shown by James and Grace Jansen.

The "trip" was part of the group's November meeting, at which those members with birthdays and anniversaries were honored.

Celebrating birthdays were Alice Evans, Lillian Bernhardt, Muriel Bearance, Nora Armhein, Stella Bunnell, Emma Bowden, Vera Anderson, Grace Dunn, Harold Higgens, Russell Price, Henry Deering, Nelson Nadeau, Zula Hopson, Mary Pokerwinski, Lillian Mead, Effie Kerbyson, Molly Rubin, Tom McKenzie and Myrtie Wells.

Wedding anniversaries celebrated by members during the month of November included Joe and Genevieve Brooks, Art and Fannie Sullens, William and Elsie Buckberry, Harold and Phyllis Higgins and Fred and Ina Lunde.

At another session of the club, the members saw a film by Allan Rice, describing the ways senior citizens can prevent or cope with crimes such as purse snatching, obscene phone calls, prowlers or attacks.

During winter months ahead

Here's 12 ways to cut your heating bill

Homeowners everywhere are finding it will cost even more to heat their homes this winter, so the search is on more seriously than ever before for ways to reduce fuel consumption and lower fuel bills.

The 12 most practical ways to cut vour fuel bills are:

(1) Insulate your home well. It's the most effective thing you can do. With adequate insulation, your home will require only about 50 percent as much fuel as with no insulation.

To insulate an existing home, first pay attention to the ceiling, where heat loss is greatest. You can generally insulate the ceiling, where heat loss is greatest, yourself by laying thick, but lightweight fiber glass blankets between joists in the attic floor.

If you already have some insulation, you can use an "add-on" insulation which is made specifically to bring inadequate attic insulation up to today's standards. Consult an insulation contractor about insulating closed-in ceilings and walls.

Choose amounts of insulation by resistance numbers, which tell how well insulation retards heat flow. In new homes, use at least R-19 (6½-inch thickness) in ceilings, R-11 (3 ⅞ inches to 4 inches) in walls. Insulation in floors is needed for homes built over open crawl spaces.

(3) Use storm doors, keep them tightly latched.

(4) Weatherstrip windows and doors to keep warm air in, cold air out.

(5) Caulk cracks around the outside of window and door frames.

(6) Call in a heating service man to clean and adjust the heating burner. He also should check balancing of the heat distribution system to make sure no room gets more heat than it needs.

(7) Clean or replace furnace filters. Dirty filters may severely hinder movement of warm air, reducing efficiency and wasting fuel.

(8) Set the thermostat back at night, but only 6 or 7 degees. A bigger setback will require extra fuel on morning pick-up. Always set the thermostat back if you're going to be away for a weekend or longer.

(9) Check the location of your thermostat. It should be on an inside wall four to five feet above floor level. Keep it away from heat sources such as a TV set or a lamp.

(10) Turn off heat in rooms that aren't used. If you have zone thermostats to control your heating consider keeping bedrooms at a lower temperature during the day. If you like to sleep with a window open, make sure the bedroom door is closed.

(11) Install a humidifier. When relative humidity is high, you will be comfortable at a lower temperature.

(12) Develop good heat conservation habits. Lock windows to pull sash tightly together. Close fireplace dampers except when a fire is burning. Close draperies at night, open them on sunny days.

Wise use of energy helps save wasted 30 percent

About 20 percent of all the energy produced is consumed by the 70 million households in the United States.

More than half of that energy is used for heating and cooling, about 15 percent for water heating and the rest goes to run appliances, such as washers and dryers.

Yet, an estimated 30 percent of the energy used in this country is wasted, according to the Federal Energy Administration.

"American families can help eliminate much of that waste, by wise use of energy and, in the process, save precious energy resources for the nation and money for themselves," FEA representatives said.

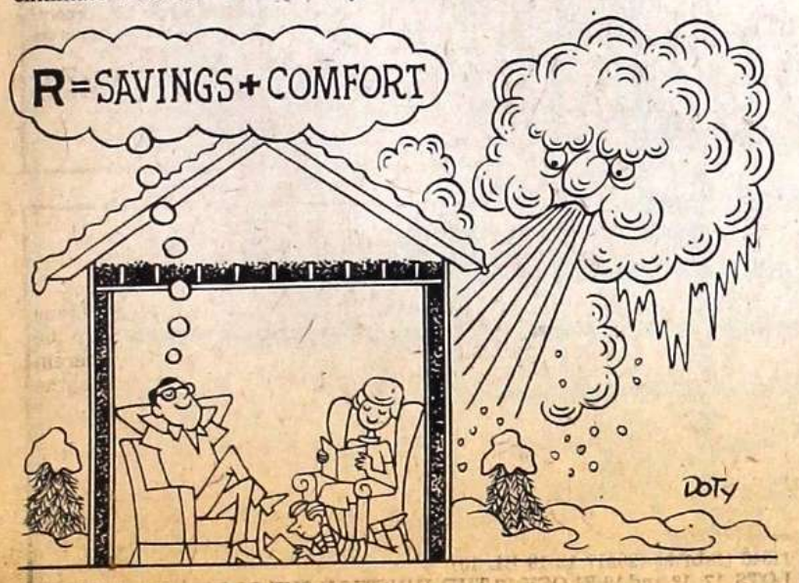
One of the most effective ways a homeowner can conserve energy and lower his fuel bills is to add insulation to walls, ceilings and floors over unheated areas. Some "experts" believing that "insulation is insulation is insulation is list their recommendations in inches. But, there's more to insulation than meets the ruler.

The efficiency of the material that does the insulating is more important than its thickness. Wood, for example, is four times as efficient as cinder block as an insulator, six times more efficient than brick, 15 times better than concrete or stone, 400 times better than steel and 1,770 times more efficient than aluminum.

That's why knowledgeable homeowners look for R-value when shopping for insulation. R-value is a measure of the ability of a material to retard heat flow. The higher the R-value, the higher its insulating quality.

The recommendations of the National Cellulose Insulation Manufacturers Association (NCIMA), R-30 for ceilings, R-14 for sidewalls and R-13 for floors over uninsulated areas, are considerably higher than not only most existing or newer homes, but higher than recommended by manufacturers of most other insulating materials. These higher degrees of insulation, NCIMA says, can be achieved with cellulosic fiber insulation.

With fuel prices expected to continue their upward spiral for some time, R-value is a term residents have to know something about in the future.



Carpet can cozy up home in winter season

It won't be long. Ol'Man Winter's on his way.

Autumn days roll by, temperatures drop, thermostats go up, and keeping warm becomes a major concern to homeowners everywhere.

Ecology and economy dictate a lot of our thinking these days, and here's where the "look" of warmth can have enormous psychological value.

Wall-towall carpet probably does more to "cozy-up" a home than any other homefurnishing item.

Bulky yarns, plump pile, tufted loops — all appeal to the senses.

Texture influences and provokes moods and feeling, just as color does, with very definite psychological effects.

According to fashion experts, the hottest look in carpeting right now is the saxony plush. These carpets are densely tufted, exceptionally soft to touch, and perform exceedingly well. In addition, they're now available in sculptured patterns as well as velvety constructions.

There's no doubt that wall-to-wall carpet is comfortable as well as easy to care for.

'Little things' help decorate wall-to-wall

The difference between furnishing a room and decorating it is evident in the little things.

This never is truer than when you're working with patterns, which is most of the time if you do any decorating. Patterns are popular — for draperies and walls, floor coverings and upholstery.

Interior designers have no difficulty selecting patterns to go together. They've been schooled in how to build color bridges between patterns and to vary the scale of patterns so they won't clash. These may be little things, but they're important.

Since most of us aren't professional decorators, we welcome all the help we can get, like coordinated materials from the manufacturer. Happily, such help is available.

One room that comes in for redecorating more than most is the kitchen. Kitchen projects usually include replacing the old linoleum with modern flooring, often a no-wax floor.

And now there's a collection of no-wax floors and wallcoverings that were literally made for each other.

Each flooring design has a corresponding wallcovering. The tricky part — coordinating the patterns and colors — has been taken care of by the manufacturer.

Unlike many no-wax floors whose designs are printed-on, these floors have inlaid color that comes from building up thousands of vinyl granules and fusing them together under high heat and pressure — a process a lot like nature's own. The design is topped by a special no-wax surface that ives the floors their long-lasting shine.

The wallcoverings are washable vinyl, and they're pretrimmed, prepasted and strippable.

That not only makes them easier to apply (or someday remove) but it suggests other uses for the wallcoverings: for example, on kitchen cabinets and doors and as trim on ceiling moldings and food preparation islands.

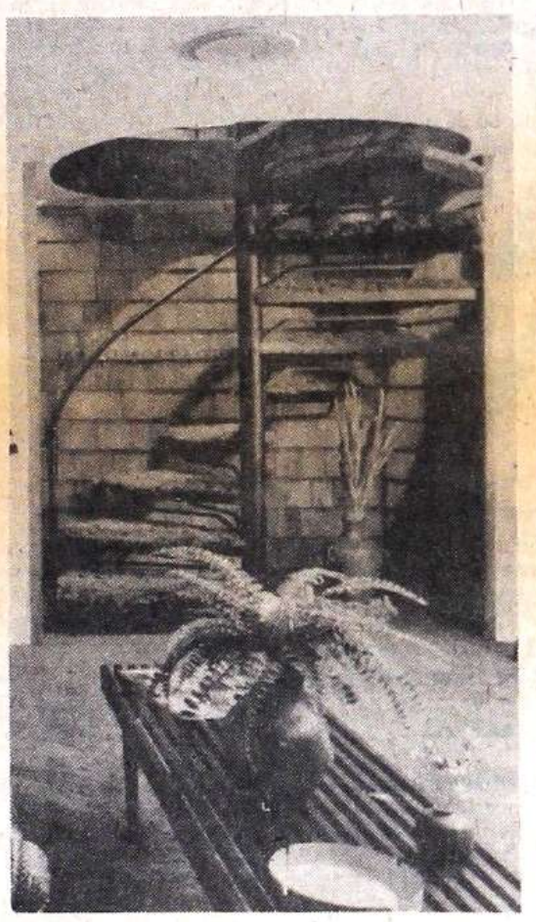
Decoupage is another way to bring decorator touches to a remodeling project. Take some leftover wallcovering and a pair of scissors and cut out the pattern. Then simply moisten and apply the cut-outs to tables, window shades, chair backs, or other furniture.

There's no better way to unify open spaces than with floors and wallcoverings that not only go together, but tie together the other furnishings for a total decorating effect.

Circular stairway connects 2 rooms

Idle rooms and unimproved floor space are fast disappearing in homes as families beat the high cost of moving by remodeling attics, basements or garages into new bedrooms or leisure areas.

One of the more creative renovations done to a home recently began with knocking out the wall at the front entry and adding a new living room at the front of the house. More interesting, however, is the new party room and how to get there.



Originally, the only way to the unfinished room was down the back stairs behind the kitchen and through the basement laundry room. All right for family, maybe, but not too good for entertaining.

So the couple cut a round hole 5½ feet across in the middle of the floor between the new living room and the family room-dining area. Then they dug a rectangular hole alongside the basement room, so they wouldn't take away any floor space.

This rectangular stairwell was bricked in and faced with cedar shingles left over from the living room addition. The shingles blended with the cedar board paneling on the walls of the new living room and party room.

A railing of metal rods and wood rails was added around the stairwell in the entryway for safety. A welder friend fabricated the circular stairs following the couple's design.

The stairs were brought in sections and welded in place. The steps are iron frames with wood pieces cut to fit and set in. The treads are covered with carpeting that is removable for cleaning or replacing.

Carpeting, white paint and the cedar paneling added brightness and color hardly imaginable before the renovation began. And the new stairs made it easy for an overflow of friends to move downstairs into the new party room.

On new furnishings

Proper maintenance can trim expenses

What can the average person do to help fight inflation?

Just as "charity begins at home," the struggle against inflation also should begin at home. One way to stretch the family budget is to apply the twin principles of proper care and preventive maintenance.

Cars, clothes, appliances, home furnishings — with proper care they'll look better and last longer, thus cutting down on major household spending.

A home furnishings company, has some timely advice on floor treatment. Some tips on proper care are:

— If the floor is near an outside door, place a mat or throw rug at the entrance to keep soil from being tracked in. It should not have synthetic foam backing that can cause the floor to become discolored.

— Floor protectors should be used on the legs of furniture to minimize scratches and indentations.

— When moving heavy furniture or appliances, slip a scrap of carpet face down under each leg to avoid damaging the floor.

Preventive maintenance requires regular sweeping or vacuuming, sponge-mopping with warm water, occasional washing, and polishing (except in the case of no-wax floors).

Sweeping: To prevent soil build-up and scratches, sweep, dust-mop or vacuum floors often.

Sponge-mopping: Dip the sponge-mop into a bucket of warm water, wring it out well, and push the mop across the floor — pressing enough to loosen the surface dirt. Do not flood the floor.

Eventually, normal foot traffic may begin to reduce the gloss of a no-wax surface...

Washing: Prepare a cleaning solution with warm water and a general-purpose liquid detergent. Do not use soap-based products which can leave a dulling film.

Use one sponge-mop and bucket to wash the floor and another mop and bucket for rinsing. Floors always should be rinsed thoroughly because detergent left after washing will hold dirt.

Dip the sponge-mop into the cleaning solution, and without wringing it out, spread it on a small area of the floor (about 3 feet by 3 feet). Relax for a minute while the detergent attacks the dirt, then go over the area with the saturated mop, scrubbing hard enough to clean the floor thoroughly. Stubborn marks can be gotten up with a nylon pad. Wringing out the mop, soak up as much of the cleaning solution as possible.

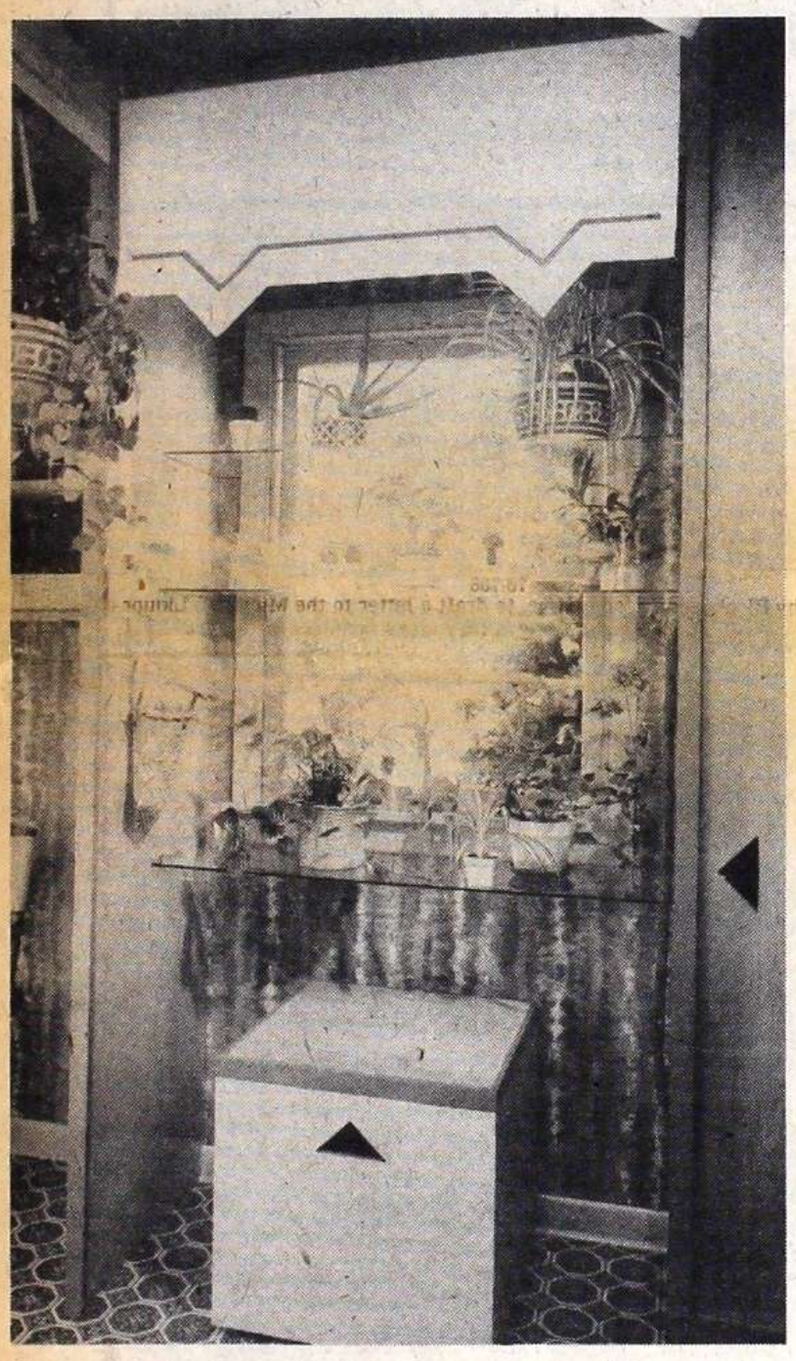
Next, take your rinse mop, dip it into clear warm water, wring it out, and proceed to remove the cleaning solution from the floor. Repeat this procedure of washing and rinsing an area at a time over the entire floor. Be sure to change your rinse water often to avoid redepositing any dirt or detergent.

Waxing: With the exception of no-wax floors, all floors should receive regular applications of a protective floor polish to prevent scratching and to provide a bright shine. Always apply the wax to a clean surface, and strip off accumulated layers of wax after six or seven applications.

Follow the steps for washing, then allow the floor to dry. Apply the polish in a thin, uniform coat. Move the applicator in all directions to assure even distribution. Let the polish dry completely before using the room.

No-wax floors should have a bright, shiny appearance to begin with and should keep that shine without waxing far longer than ordinary vinyl floors. To keep that shiny, new look, no-wax floors must be swept, sponge-mopped and washed — but not waxed.

Eventually normal foot traffic may begin to reduce the gloss of a no-wax wear surface. A special finish available from flooring stores can be used from time to time to touch up the shine. This finish is not a wax or polish; it's a substance like the original factory-applied wear surface.



Window dressing

Windows can serve several functions from letting in the sun to serving as a miniature greenhouse. Glass shelves can green up any window, offering several tiers in which to arrange a large variety of plants, for a "living curtain". It's an ideal way for houseplant enthusiasts to show off their greens, while sprucing up a drab window.

Carpeting creates cozy atmosphere

Wall-to-wall carpet also has the look of luxury at a very modest cost.

Colorful, long-wearing, moth-free,and easy to maintain, today's carpet is a better dollar value than it was 25 years ago.

What's more, wall-to-wall carpet has unifying properties, tying together diverse activity areas making for a flow of continuity where furniture, window treatments, and accessories are more outstanding as decorative components.

Best of all, this season carpet looks warm, feels warm, especially to someone who loves to relax barefoot at home.

Gas water heater is efficient energy unit

If you have a gas water heater, you are already using an efficient energy appliance — using it effectively can save even more:

Lower water-temperature setting to 120 degrees. (A savings to 10 to 20 percent of water heating costs can be achieved).

Repair dripping water faucets.

Wash full loads of clothes and dishes.

Use one third less hot water for bathing. (A savings of up to 14 percent of water heating costs can be achieved).

Insulate hot water pipes.

In the clothes dryer:

Dry full loads.

Clean lint filter after every load.

County seeks reimbursement

State asked to pay for state prisoners

Wayne County is asking the State of Michigan to reimburse the county treasury for housing convicted felons who end up as state prisoners and who receive credit toward their sentences for time served in the Wayne County Jail.

The county Board of Commissioners has approved a resolution that seeks changes in the state law which would make the state financially responsible for the time these prisoners spend in the county jail.

The resolution, approved by the Board at its Nov. 18 meeting, was introduced by Commissioners Edgar Harris (D-Taylor), Thomas Presnell (D-Westland) and Royce E. Smith (D-Belleville).

It also seeks reimbursement for jail care from convicted prisoners who have the ability to pay their daily housing costs.

"Jail costs are skyrocketing, and it's unfair to ask Wayne County taxpayers to pay millions of dollars for inmates who are technically state prisoners," Harris said. "If credit toward time served were not granted, the state would have to keep the prisoners longer and pay the full cost of housing them."

Under present law, the county is obligated to pay for the housing and care of inmates awaiting trial. In Wayne County, convicted inmates are sent to the state prison in Jackson, where the financial responsibility falls upon the state.

"The law we want amended deals with credit for time served," Presnell said. "The courts now must grant credit for time served prior to sentencing, if the convicted individual has been unable or denied the opportunity to post bond."

"We don't object to that principle," he added. "But we do want the state to pay all charges and expenses of maintaining prisoners in the county jail system during the 'credited' period."

"The 1974-75 per diem cost of housing a prisoner in the County Jail was $30.77," Smith continued. "Our 1975-76 figures aren't available yet, but it's been estimated by our county auditors that the cost could rise as high as $50 per day, principally because of the high cost of converting M Building to house the overflow of county prisoners." Smith went on to say that it cost the county $9.3 million in fiscal 1974-75 to house prisoners in the county jail system.

"A good share of the prisoners we keep eventually end up in Jackson," he added. "I checked with the Sheriff's Jail Division and they told me that from January through October, the county has sent 2,564 men to Jackson.

"Roughly, 95 percent of these men get credit for time served in our jail. If the state paid us back for this time, it would amount to a healthy rebate that could be applied elsewhere."

Presnell said the county also will seek new legislation requiring convicted persons or their estates to repay the county or the state for their time spent in jail, if they are financially able to do so.

The three commissioners said they also uncovered an area of jail expense that, by law, should be borne by the State of Michigan.

"The state is obligated to pay the daily housing costs of state parole violators who are kept in the county jail," Smith said. "But our investigation has discovered that the state has been ignoring our bills for reimbursement for at least 15 and perhaps 20 years."

"This is an unjust burden on the Wayne County taxpayers, and we intend to look into it," he continued.

In related action, the Board of Commissioners also approved a resolution sponsored by Commissioner Samuel A. Turner (D-Detroit) advising the architects designing the county's new jail facility to design it so that an additional 400 beds could be added at some future date.

The new jail which will be built in downtown Detroit has been designed to house 400 inmates.

"When the new jail is constructed, the county will have a total capacity of 1,171 beds," Turner said. "But those figures include 250 beds at M Building which is a temporary facility renovated to meet an emergency situation." The estimated need for the next five years if rom 1,200 to 1,500 beds.

"It appears that the least costly and most efficient means of increasing bed capacity on a permanent basis is to design our new jail to accommodate future additions, possibly by adding new floors," he said.

Turner's resolution was referred to the New Jail Construction Sub committee for a report back no later than December 1, 1976.

Keep foods cold

Foodborne diseases run rampant during the holidays when rich, piquant foods are being prepared and served lavishly in the home, According to B. Dale Ball, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture (MDA). Few cases make the news but many food poisoning incidents occur in homes each year.

"The Michigan Department of Agriculture is responsible for assuring the safety of the public food supply from farm to market, "but it's the consumers' job once the products leave the store," he said.

According to Dr. Edward Heffron, MDA Food Inspection division chief, that holiday buffet of roast turkey, dressing, cream pie or custard may be appetizing, but it's also potentially hazardous and should be handled with care.

"Foods containing milk or milk products, eggs, meats, poultry or fish require refrigeration and should not be left standing for long periods of time," Heffron said. "The best way to guard against possible contamination is to put leftovers in the refrigerator immediately after the meal."

Heffron went on to say that in preparing your Thanksgiving bird, cooking it to an internal temperature of 185 degrees is necessary to destroy organisms which can cause food poisoning. If preparing dressing, it's important to place it in the turkey just before roasting and remove it from the cavity before storing in the refrigerator.

If someone in the family does become ill and you suspect food poisoning, call your doctor or local health department, Heffron advised, then call MDA to investigate and be sure to save a sample of the food for analysis in the MDA laboratory.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture's main office is in Lansing with branch offices in Escanaba, Traverse City, Grand Rapids, Benton Harbor, Detroit and Frankenmuth.

Radio stations offer updates on weather

Motorists traveling all interstate freeways in Michigan this winter can obtain up-to-the-minute weather information on their car radios as the result of a cooperative program involving the Michigan Association of Broadcasters, the State Police and the Department of State Highways and Transportation.

The Highways and Transportation Department has completed erection of 35 large blue and white signs headed by the legend, Weather Info. Each sign will carry up to four frequencies of cooperating radio stations. Motorists can turn their car radio to one of the four frequencies and be assured of getting current weather infromation every 15 to 30 minutes during periods of severe weather.

State Police will feed information on driving conditions to radio stations involved in the new reporting service.

The service was inaugurated as a pilot program on three freeways last winter and now has been extended to all interstate freeways in Michigan. The Federal Highway Administration, which is encouraging freeway weather information signing, paid 90 percent of the cost.

The Michigan Association of Broadcasters emphasized that "this is a service to the public and not an advertisement for radio stations - Hence, call letters will not be shown."

NOT BE SHOWN."

Most radio stations participating in the service operate 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and have transmitting strength to cover up to 70 miles of the particular freeway.

Weather Info signs now are in place, intermittently, along I-75 from the Ohio border to the Canadian border at Sault Ste. Marie; I-94 across the southern part of the Lower Peninsula; I-96 from Muskegon to Detroit; I-196 from Benton Harbor to Grand Rapids; and I-69 from the Indiana border near Coldwater to near Lansing.

Steelworkers local aids Kidney Foundation

A $50,000 donation from District 29 of the United Steelworkers of America will enable the Kidney Foundation of Michigan to fund new blood pressure research and embark on a major effort to educate seventh, eighth and ninth graders in the state about high blood pressure.

The funds, represent the proceeds from District 29's annual Charles G. Younglove Golf Day, on which John L. Johnson of Homefield Street, Romulus, worked.

The donation will be presented to the foundation at a meeting last week at the Great Lakes Steelworkers Credit Union in Ecorse.

A film, "High Blood Pressure — Public Enemy No. 1", was shown at the meeting. A portion of the film is being underwritten by the steelworkers' donation.

"The Kidney Foundation is hoping that its new film will interest the kids enough to take its message home to their parents," said Younglove Golf Committee Chairman Harry E. Lester. "A special brochure and suggested teaching unit is being developed for this purpose."

Information on the film, which also is availabe to adult groups, can be obtained by contacting the Kidney Foundation at 3387 Washtenaw Avenue, Ann Arbor 48104, or by calling 971-2800 or toll free in the 313 area code area 1-800-462-0757.

Sports crises

Romulus seeks money for varsity athletics

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Sports

While most area high school basketball, wrestling and swimming teams began their count-down for the 1976-77 season, most Romulus High athletes are counting themselves out.

A last-hour meeting between the Romulus board of education, school officials, parents and booster club members was to determine if the athletic program could be saved at the high school.

Money, the lack of it, has led board members to take a good look at the school budget, and they came back recommending cuts in expenditures, including the elimination of the winter sports program.

The failure of two millages has caused the economic crises.

However, head cage coach Jesse Meriweather and wrestling coach Vern Logan are continuing with every day practices in hopes that money will be raised.

"Yes, our teams are practicing," said Ed Baum, the high school's athletic director. "We still believe in miracles, I guess."

"It would be a pity to see these kids lose out," Baum added. "We're shortchanging them."

Asked whether the basketball program wasn't self-supporting, Baum replied: "In some years, yes. However, the bunk of the money goes for transportation.

"We figure that it costs in the area of 93 cents a mile to transport our teams," Baum said. "And we just don't have that kind of money available for all of our teams."

Long could be Romulus' 1st All-American cager

Johnny Long, ex-Romulus High cage great, is being groomed as an All-American at the University of Detroit.

"Mr. Outside", as Long has been tagged — Terry "Thunder" Tyler is "Mr. Inside", has developed into a 6-5 forward who averaged 19.7 points to lead the Titans in scoring last year, for the second straight year.

"John has to be ranked as one of the premier small forwards in the nation," Coach Dick Vitale said. "He has great offensive ability, both inside and outside, and is an outstanding rebounder for his size."

An outstanding rebounder, at 6-5? Well, youu can ask the University of Buffalo about Long's rebounding. Long grabbed 19 against Buffalo, the most by any U-D player all season.

In all, Long was in double figures in rebounding in eight games.

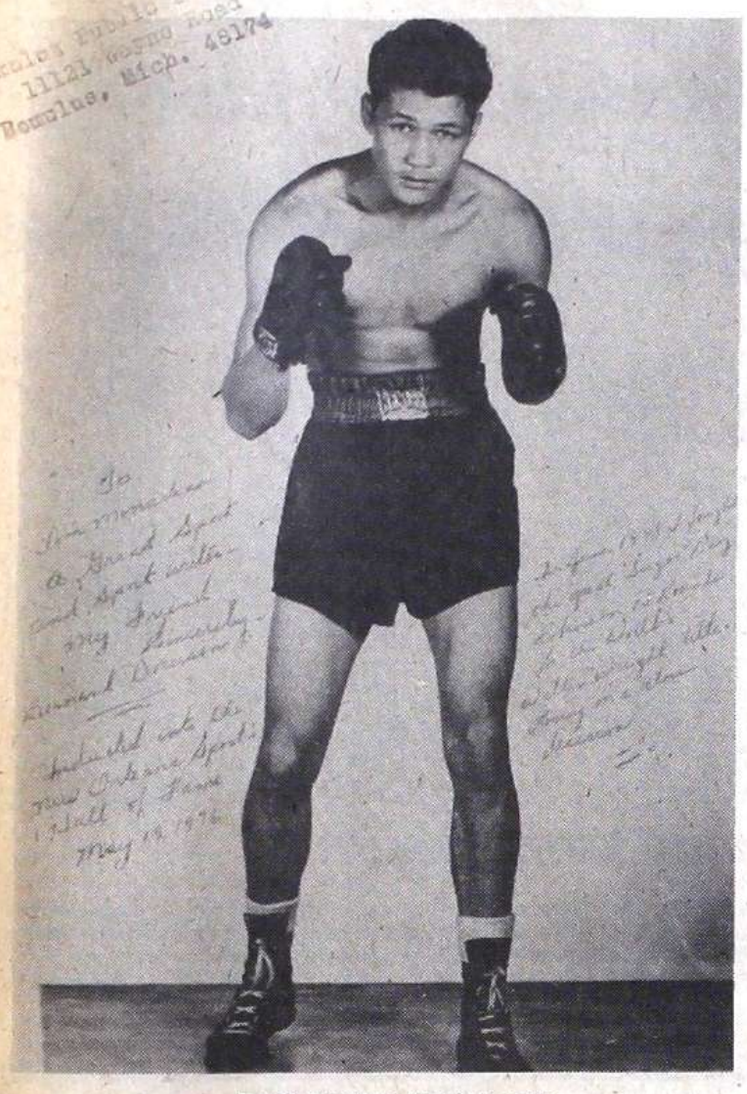
But in scoring, he finished in double figures more often...in all 27 games the Titans played. Long has now been in double figures in 32 straight games, since the Marquette game of his freshman year.

Down the stretch last year, Long was brilliant. In U-D's last 10 games, Long missed scoring at least 20 points and 9.9 rebounds, well above his season averages of 19.7 points and 8.9 rebounds.

John just missed another milestone last year, but he'll take care of it early this season. In his first two years, he scored 977 points, just 23 shy of the coveted 1,000 mark. Had he totaled 1,000 last season, he would have been the first Titan since Dave DeBusschere to accumulate the total in two seasons.

Long has to be considered serious contender for All-American status this season as a junior.

And if U-D can improve on last year's 19-8 record and go to a tournament, Long will have an even better chance for that recognition.



Bernie Docusen...in his heyday

New Orleans honors its ex-boxing great— Westland's Docusen

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

He still moves silently like a panther stalking his prey; he holds his head high and is proud, though few men have taken the pounding this man has.

Bernard Docusen can move in and out of crowds now with no one recognizing him — few will ever realize how close he came to immortality.

The year was 1948. The Second World War had ended and the world was returning back to "normalcy" and Harry S. Truman was preparing to take on challenger Thomas Dewey in what was to become one of the closest United States presidential races in the history of this country.

Meanwhile, a relatively unknown boxer, the then 28-year-old Docusen was preparing to meet Sugar Ray Robinson, the welterweight champion of the world.

The stage was Chicago's Comiskey Park and Sugar Ray was stepping into the ring with 48 consecutive victories behind him. He was the bettor's 5-1 choice to dump Docusen who had come out of the South whipping the likes of Joey Barnum, Gene Burton and Louis Bell — all "blue chip" welters in their time.

Docusen remembers the fight with Sugar Ray "as if it were yesterday".

"I was on edge," recalled the handsome boxer. "And for good reason. Our bout had been postponed twice before — and that was getting to me."

Apparently, Sugar Ray was infamously known to delay or postpone a scheduled bout so that his opponent would train hard, then break and then be forced to train again.

Finally, in June of 1948 Docusen stepped into the ring with Sugar Ray. And for 10 of the 15 scheduled rounds, the New Orleans boxer had the defending world champs worried.

Then, in the 11th — but, let Docusen tell his story: "I was coming off the rope when Robinson caught me with a left hook that put me on the canvas.

"It was the first time in my professional career that I had been knocked down," Docusen said. "And I could hear the ref counting."

Docusen got up at the count of nine — but the damage had been inflicted. He managed to struggle through the next four rounds and Robinson eventually was awarded an unanimous decision.

"This is the first time I ever had anyone on the floor and couldn't finish him off," Sugar Ray told reporters. "He's the best boxer I ever fought and I have never seen anyone punch as fast as this kid — he's your next champ."

Time unfortunately proved Sugar Ray wrong.

Docusen amassed an incredible 66-9-8 won-lost-draw record, but he never reached the coveted world title. In 1953, after suffering a beating at the hands of Joey Giambra, Bernie hung up his gloves for good.

Earlier this year, Docusen, who resides in Westland with his wife, the former Rose Tules, a "Miss New Orleans Beauty Queen", returned to New Orleans for some special ceremonies.

New Orleans had not forgotten Docusen, whom the fans consider "the finest boxer to come out of that city without a title".

Docusen was inducted into the New Orleans Sports Hall of Fame on May 19, 1976.

A few months later, Bernie suffered a blow which was as devasting as the one inflicted by the great Sugar Ray. Evans Products Co. of Plymouth where Docusen had been employed for more than 20 years announced it was moving out of the state and to Chicago.

That move by Evans' Product cut off Docusen's income and placed him in an unemployment line. The father of six children calls it "a temporary setback" then adds:

"I have always kept my faith in the Lord and I know things will work out for us. The greatest and happiest moment in my life was the day I received Jesus Christ in my heart as my Lord."

The world boxing title may have eluded Bernie Docusen, but he has found a world few champs have ever discovered.

All-Area '11' coming next

With such outstanding teams as Westland John Glenn, Belleville. Wayne Memorial and Livonia ia Franklin to pick from, one would thing the 1976 All-Area Football Team would be "easy pickings."

It wasn't.

For the past nine weeks Sports Editor Tom Mooradian has been keeping his eyes open for the top players and he has learned that none of the 11 area teams has a monopoly on the talent this season.

However, thanks to the coaches, who nudged the old sports editor along, the job has been completed and next week fans will get the 1976 edition our our All-Area Offense and Defense.

And, of course, the ANP's "Coach of the Year."

Extends swim reign

Undefeated in their last 14 league outings, Wayne Memorial's giris' swim team retained the Great Lakes 8 Conference Swimming & Diving Championships for the second season in a row. Coach Jim McPartlin's (second row, at right) Zebras posted a perfect 7-0 league record this year and also breezed through league competition a year ago with an identical mark.

BRAD SMITH

Romulus' Smith eyes title

Coach Harbey Bowles' University of Toledo wrestlers, who call themselves "Harvey's Wall-bangers", opened the 1976-77 season last week in an open meet at Wright State that attracted at least three all-Americans besides the Rockets' own Brad Smith.

Smith, an all-stater from Romulus, placed fourth in last year's NCAA tournament at 142 pounds and is a serious contender for national honors.

Bowles also has another former Romulus Wrestling star and All-Area candidate in LaMar Sandusky in his lineup.

The University of Toledo team will compete at the Indiana State Open on Nov. 23-24 before traveling to Kentucky (Dec. 7) for their frist dual meet of the year.

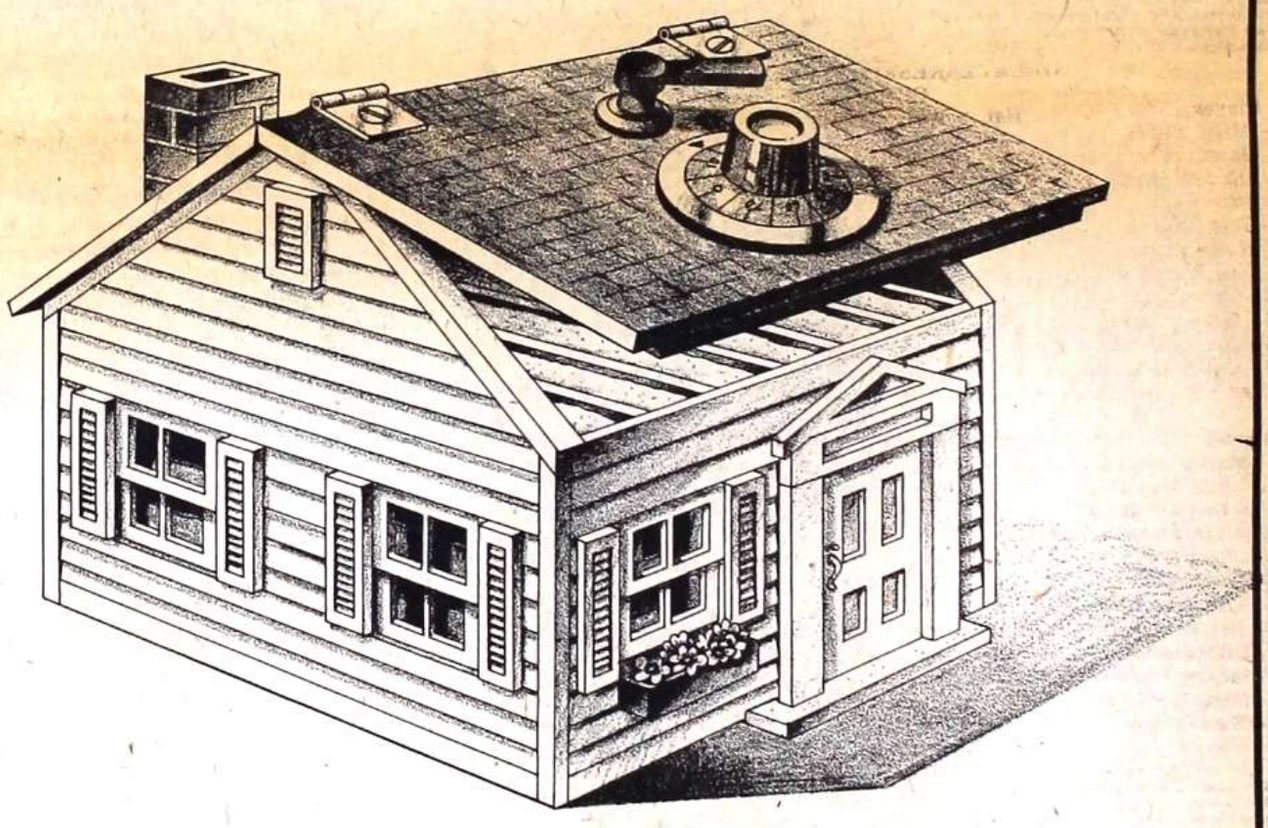
Save up to $75 in your attic this winter.



Insulate!

Nobody likes higher Gas bills, including us at Michigan Consolidated. But because the cost of Gas we buy from our suppliers has gone up, your Gas bills will be higher this winter than they were last year.

So it makes sense to stretch each dollar's worth of Gas just as far as possible, and to keep your Gas bills as low as you can. One way to do this is by insulating your home.

Once again, Michigan Consolidated is offering a low-cost Home Ceiling Insulation Program designed to conserve Natural Gas and save you money.

Since the program's introduction nearly three years ago, more than 115,000 of our customers have installed ceiling insulation, and have cut their home heating costs by as much as 17% each year. Based on expected Gas prices for this winter, this means a customer who has not yet insulated may be able to reduce his annual heating cost by as much as $75, starting immediately.

If you do the job yourself, you should be able to buy insulation for a home with 650 sq. ft. of attic space for about $125.00. That means you'll probably save enough Gas to pay for the material in less than two years. Our free Do-It-Yourself Insulation Handbook tells you how. Pick one up at any of our customer business offices or any participating retail outlet. Or call or write, and we'll mail you a copy.

If you'd rather not do the job yourself, one of our participating insulation subcontractors can. The cost? About $250.00 for homes with less than 1000 sq. ft. of ceiling area. You can pay cash. You can pay 20% down and pay the balance without interest over your next three Gas bills. Or you can make extended payments at an interest rate of 1% per month on the unpaid balance (ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE OF 12%).

So why not save money in your attic this winter with our low-cost Home Ceiling Insulation Program? We'd like to help you cut your heating costs, and we'll both be working to save our country's valuable Natural Gas supplies.

We do care about your tomorrow.

Zebras need $$$ for trip

Wayne matmen win opener

BY TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Despite the fact they weren't able to field a complete lineup, perennial Class A state wrestling power, Wayne Memorial won its opening invitational at Bedford Tenperance over the weekend.

Coach Don Haney's Zebras garnered 182 points, turning back its closest challenger, host Bedford, by five points. There were six other teams in the field.

Wayne, the defending Great Lakes 8 Conference champ, took five gold medals thanks to Bob Wanshon (119), Mike Lazarz (132), Chris Bachus (145), Mitch Dart (165) and Chris Leverenz (178). They also had seconds: Bob Kroll (126), Dave Lusk (155) and heavyweight Kenny Hooper.

Third place medals were awarded to Wayne's Roger Grace (112) and Kevin Pardee (138).

Haney, whose teams have figured prominently in the battle for the Class A state championship, is having problems in tenough "hard-nosed kids for this year's team."

"I don't quite understand it, Haney said. "We can't find enough kids for the team. We're having problems in the light weights as well as the heavy weights.

"However, what we have out is decent and we'll be all right in most weight classes," Haney added.

Haney noted that one of the highlights of the 1976-77 season will be a trip to Pennslyvania where the Zebras will take part in the annual California State Teachers' College Invitational held in Chartiers, Penn.

Wayne will be the lone Michigan representative; there will also be prep teams from Maryland, West Virginaia and Pennsylvania.

Haney figures that the team will have to raise at least $1000 in order to make th trip. One way the Zebras plan to get the money is by utilizing the services of A & P Food Chain's 5 percent plan, "Donation Day".

The plan allows clubs to collect a 5 percent "rebate" on purchases made by club members.

"The local A & P Store in the Metro Mall has granted us such a day for Tues., Nov. 30 - all day," said Haney. "If our fans purchase anything at the A & P outlet there, they should stress that they would like the five percent donation returned to the Wayne Wrestling Booster's Club.

"We plan to take about 15 or 16 wrestlers to the Pennsylvania tournament which is ser for Dec. 27-29," added Haney. "And we'll need some help to raise the money."

Wayne launches the "home phase" of its season on Dec. 4 when it travels to John Glenn, the host for the annual Western Wayne Invitational.

Nancy Dickerson, prominent national correspondent, reports for Detroit Edison:

"November is Energy Month ...but energy conservation is a year-round job."

November is "Energy Month" in Michigan.

Governor William Milliken has officially dedicated November to promoting energy conservation through increased public awareness of energy problems.

Throughout "Energy Month" everyone is encouraged to find and share new ways to conserve energy.

This is an important time. Many of the fuels used to supply our energy are becoming scarce and expensive.

So energy conservation directly concerns us all...during "Energy Month" and every month of the year.

Each of us, as energy users, is responsible for using energy wisely. The job begins right at home. Here are just a few things you can do to be wise, and be dollars ahead on energy costs.

Insulate exterior walls, floors, heating and cooling ducts, attics, and crawl spaces with the correct amount and proper type of insulating materials.

Regulate your heating and cooling loads by dialing your thermostat down in winter and up in summer, especially at night or when your house is empty. Lower water heater and furnace fan settings, too.

Ventilate with an attic exhaust fan in hot weather to lower your air-conditioning load and operating costs.

Control heat loss through glass areas in winter with storm windows and doors. Check weatherstripping and caulking. Drapes and shades also help; they control heat gain and air-conditioner strain in summer.

Maintain your furnace and air conditioner with regular service checks. Replace filters often. Repair faulty appliances because they could be wasting energy... and costing you extra money.

And Plan Ahead when buying a new air conditioner. Make sure it's the right size (BTUs) with an Energy Efficiency Rating of 8 or more (EER = BTUs/watts). Building a new home? Consider installing a heat pump...the most energy efficient way to heat, cool, filter, and dehumidify electrically...delivering over 1½ units of heat for every unit of electricity it uses.

As an energy supplier, Detroit Edison is an active and concerned participant in America's crusade for conservation.

So, even though the people at Detroit Edison cannot control the use of energy, other than their own, they are continually working to produce and supply electricity as efficiently as possible, both to conserve our non-renewable natural resources and to give you the most for your energy dollar.

Here's what Detroit Edison is doing:

• salvaging and recycling paper, wire, lines hardware, poles, street lighting equipment, transformers, capacitors... even oil, again saving limited resources and over $8 million in 1975

• using compact service vehicles for more efficient and economical operation and gas mileage

• pioneering time-of-day rates and remote-controlled air conditioning and water heating to save millions of investment dollars and reduce energy consumption and waste

• continuing research into alternative energy sources such as solar, nuclear, wind and refuse in order to conserve scarce fossil fuels.

America's crusade for conservation requires a working relationship between those who supply energy and those who use it.

Detroit Edison is working hard to do its part. But the success of this crusade depends on all of us...every day, every month, all year round.

Save energy for all it's worth.

THE POWER IS IN YOUR HANDS.

Joining an elite club

Less than 150 drivers in harness racing history have collected 1,000 or more wins and Wayne's Mike Novick, Jr. is the latest to join the select group. The former Ontario native recevies congratulations in the winner's circle from race secretary Terry MacDonnell and general manager Tom Lachine (right) of Windsor Raceway. The track honored the occasion by presenting Novick with a commemorative watch.

Wayne's Novick joins elite harness racing's '1000 Club'

"I was too small for pro hockey, so I turned to harness racing," recalls Mike Novick as his driving career reached an important milestone at Windsor Raceway November 10.

The slender 36-year-old reinsman from Wayne, joined the exclusive "Thousand Club" race to win with Killarney Pat, sharing ownership of both these horses with Lloyd Henderson of Windsor.

Only about 150 drivers have chalked up 1,000 or more career triumphs in the history of harness racing.

"When I was growing up in the Canadian Soo (Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.,) some of my buddies were Phil Esposito, Matt Radich and Chico Maki, all of whom went on to fame in the National Hockey League," said Novick. "I played left wing for our team in the city league, but the scouts didn't give a skinny, little kid like me a second look."

Mike had an uncle, Charles McCloud, who was president of the Soo Turf Club and got the youngster interested in horses. After learning about training the trotters from a fellow named Milt Smith, working in his barn after high school classes, Mike journeyed to Michigan and became a groom and assistant trainer for Elwood McIlmurray, mostly campaigning the fair circuit.

It was in 1963 that he applied for his parimutuel driving license and started his public stable.

Since then, he has been a regular competitior at the Detroit-Windsor area tracks and rates as one of the most popular local reinsmen.

"My first big horse was Bobby Axland, purchased by Ben Calvin of Essexville, Mich., for $25,000 as a four-year-old," Novick said.

"He won purses totaling $157,000 before we retired him and we were very proud when he was invited to the first Provincial Cup field by Joe DeFrank and finished third," Nowick continued.

The next big highlight in his career occurred on Oct. 6, 1969 — opening day of the Windsor fall meeting — when Mike equalled the world record by registering six victories. This mark was surpassed in 1971 when Herve Filion reined seven winners, also at Windsor.

"Only one of those six winning horses was from my own stable," Mike remembers. "That was Rhythm Billy. The rest of them were all catch drives and I still get a thrill thinking about coming home with Lenawee Song for that record-tying win in the ninth race."

Novick went on to become the top driver in percentages at Windsor during that Fall Meeting, finishing with a .396 average. He also came through with a driving championship at Hazel Park in summertime competition.

Unbeaten Dolphins swim to 3rd victory

On the heels of a third overwhelming dual-meet victory, the Wayne Recreation Dolphin Swim Club appears headed for an undefeated first half in the Suburban Winter Swim Conference — and a giant step towards this first winter conference championship.

The Dolphins — which include boys and girls from Wayne and Westland — outswam Lincoln Park last Friday, 292-161, in an awesome display of strength and team depth.

Wayne captured 32 of 40 individual events and four of six relays, collecting a total of 43 total first-place ribbons.

Six Dolphin swimmers grabbed three first-place ribbons each. They included Mike Greuber, Eric Head, Jenny Beckton and the Batterson sisters — Mary, Catherin and Gretchen. Michael Goyette, Randy Ferguson, Thelma Kew, Keith Head and Steve Thompson each collected two first-places.

Others who won were Karen Van Curren, Mary Beth Henson, Kurt (Kerky) Whitehead, Ken Stack, Karl Staber, Jeff Eddy, Kris Balwinski, Mike Egan, Kris Whitehead, Dough White, Andy Balwinski, Jack Underwood, Rick Mathony, Monica Jones and Joe Miles.

Only Cherry Hill, which will host the Dolphins Friday, December 3, stands in the path of an undefeated first-half for Coach Jim Lawrence's charges.

Five teams comprise the winter version of the Suburban Swim Conference — Wayne, Cherry Hill, Crestwood, Lincoln Park and Riverview. The league schedule calls for two dual meets between each opponent and a league championship to be hosted by Cherry Hill early in April. Each club is composed of boys and girls from ages up to 18 years old who reside within the boundaries of its respective school district. The ultimate purpose for the clubs and formation of the league is to give youngsters training in competitve swimming and the opportunity to compete. While most are also members of the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU), affiliation is not a prerequisite for league membership, making it possible for even more youngsters to participate.

Wayne, the oldest club in terms of years operating, had very little trouble in winning its first two encounters of the season, 330-114 against Riverview, and 283-183 against Crestwood.

Lawrence, who is in his first season as head coach for the Dolphin winter portion, has well over 80 youngsters from which to select swimmers. The Dolphin club has swelled its winter membership from about 35 four years age to nearly 100 — which includes youngest member Heather Jones, who just turned six, to high school swimmers.

AUTO FACTS

By Chester Kosin

If the temperature light in your car goes on, it means that the engine is overheating. If you are stuck in traffic on a hot day, the cooling system is probably overworked. Open the hood and check for steam escaping from broken or leaking hoses. If there are no leaks that are obvious, turn on the heater and turn off the air conditioner. Place the transmission in neutral and run the engine at moderately high speed. If the warning light does not go out after a few minutes, pull off the road and stop the engine in order to keep it from overheating further. Wait until the warning light goes out, and then check the radiator.

If your Christmas gift list includes a "do-it-yourself" mechanic, visit KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan, Inkster, and choose a quality automotive tool or car accessory to surprise him! We carry everything he needs to keep his foreign or domestic car looking and running like new. Our knowledgable sales personnel will be happy to help you select the proper gift for his particular car. Bank Americard and Master Charge are honored. Call us at 563-3894. We are open daily from 8 A.M. until 8 P.M., and on Saturdays until 5 P.M.

AUTO TIP:
If the oil in your car has risen to an abnormally high level, water has probably leaked into the crankcase.

We need those sports schedules

With the 1976-77 high school winter sports season just a week away, athletic directors in the area are urged to mail in their schedules as soon as possible.

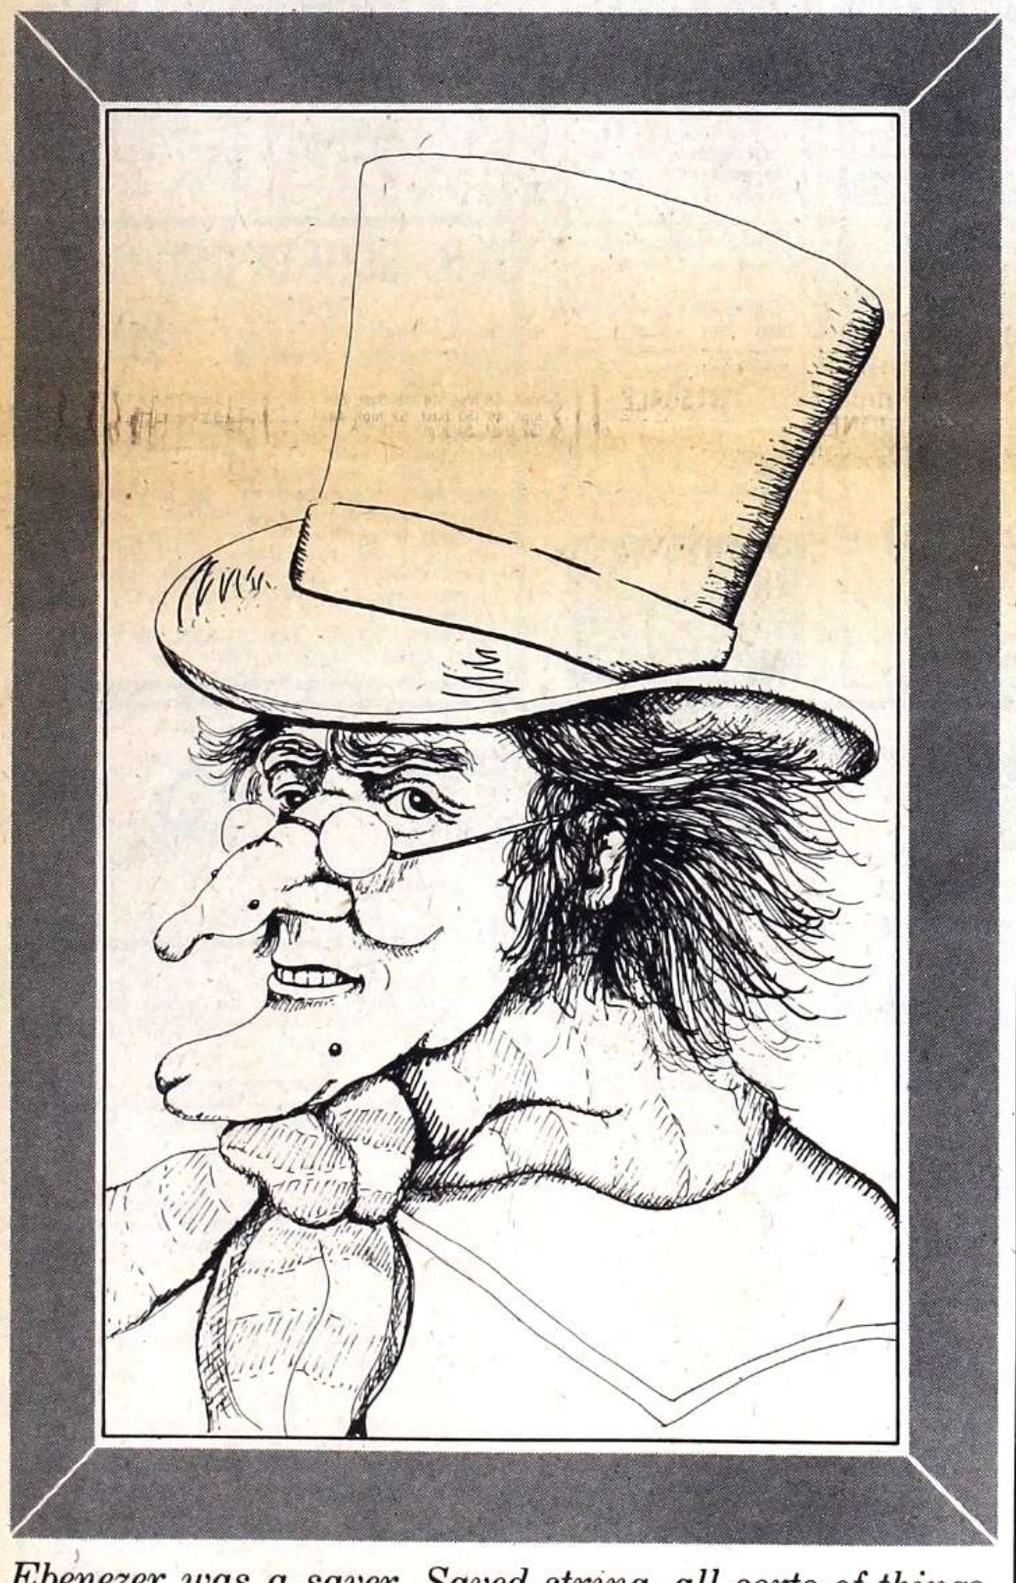
The Saga of Ebenezer Squeezer



Ebenezer was a saver. Saved string, all sorts of things. Finally one day as he was searching through his cluttered abode, he became hopelessly lost amid the knicks and the knacks and the whats and the nots and was never heard from again.

Poor Ebenezer, if he had only known that he could have converted those no longer used items into quick cash by using the Want Ads. Life would have been beautiful . . . neater . . . more profitable.

Local folklore has it that on calm, clear, moonlit nights, you can still hear a shrill voice calling, "Want Ads, I need you!"

do you need a Want Ad?

Creative sausage hors d'oeuvres make the party

It's the season to be festive! And what adds more to elegant entertaining than a table spread with exciting sausage hors d'oeuvres that are tasty and equally as easy to prepare.

Chefs William Jaeger and Robert Dimoff have created an international sausage buffet especially with the busy holiday hostess in mind. In selecting such world-wide favorites as bratwurst, salami, thuringer, frankfurters, bologna and ham, they have combined the warmth of Old World hospitality with the appeal of hearty party food that tastes just as good cold as warm.

The variety and versatility of sausage provides every hostess with the ideal basic ingredients for developing unusual and tasty party foods. Best of all, sausage products are economically priced year around and frequently receive special pricing during holidays.

Start off your hors d'oeuvre lineup with coconut coated Crispy Puffs and easy-to-make Hot Dog En Croute, speared on colorful toothpicks. As a party highlight, plan a Macedonine of Meat Fondue where guests can dunk chunks of smoked thuringer, Canadian Ham or soft salami in a blending of wine, Cheddar and Swiss cheese fondue.

CRISPY PUFF UPS

One-third pound Bratwurst
One-third pound Smoked Thuringer
One-third pound Polish Sausage
¾ cup flour
2 Eggs
¾ cup milk
2 cups shredded coconut
1 quart salad oil

Cut sausages at an angle into ½-inch slices. Blend eggs and milk in a small bowl. Dip sausages in water; dust with flour and then dip into eggs-milk mixture. Drain for a few seconds. Coat with coconut. Fry in 2 inches of salad oil heated to 350 degrees until crisp and golden. Serve with catsup, horseradish or chutney butter. Make your own chutney butter by mixing equal parts chutney with mayonnaise. Yield: Approximately 20 to 24.

HOT DOG EN CROUTE

8 slices of white bread (crusts trimmed)
8 tablespoons mayonnaise
4 teaspoons mustard
4 teaspoons piccalilli
16 cocktail franks
16 toothpicks
16 frilled toothpicks

Spread mayonnaise, mustard and picalilli on each slice of bread. Place 2 cocktail franks on each slice of bread and roll up. Place seam down on a greased baking pan and secrure with toothpicks. Broil bread is evenly browned. Remove toothpicks. Place 4 frilled toothpicks equally spaced on each roll. Slice between each pick to make 4 equal pieces. Serve with your favorite dip. Yield: 32 appetizers.

MACEDOINE OF MEAT FONDUE

1 pound shredded Swiss cheese
6 ounces shredded Cheddar cheese
4 tablespoons flour
2 dashes Tabasco
2 dashes Worcestershire Sauce
1 cup white wine
½ pound Canadian Ham (cut in ¾-inch cubes)
½ pound soft salami (cut in ¾-inch cubes)
½ pound smoked thuringer (cut one-third-inch slices)
½ pound cocktail franks

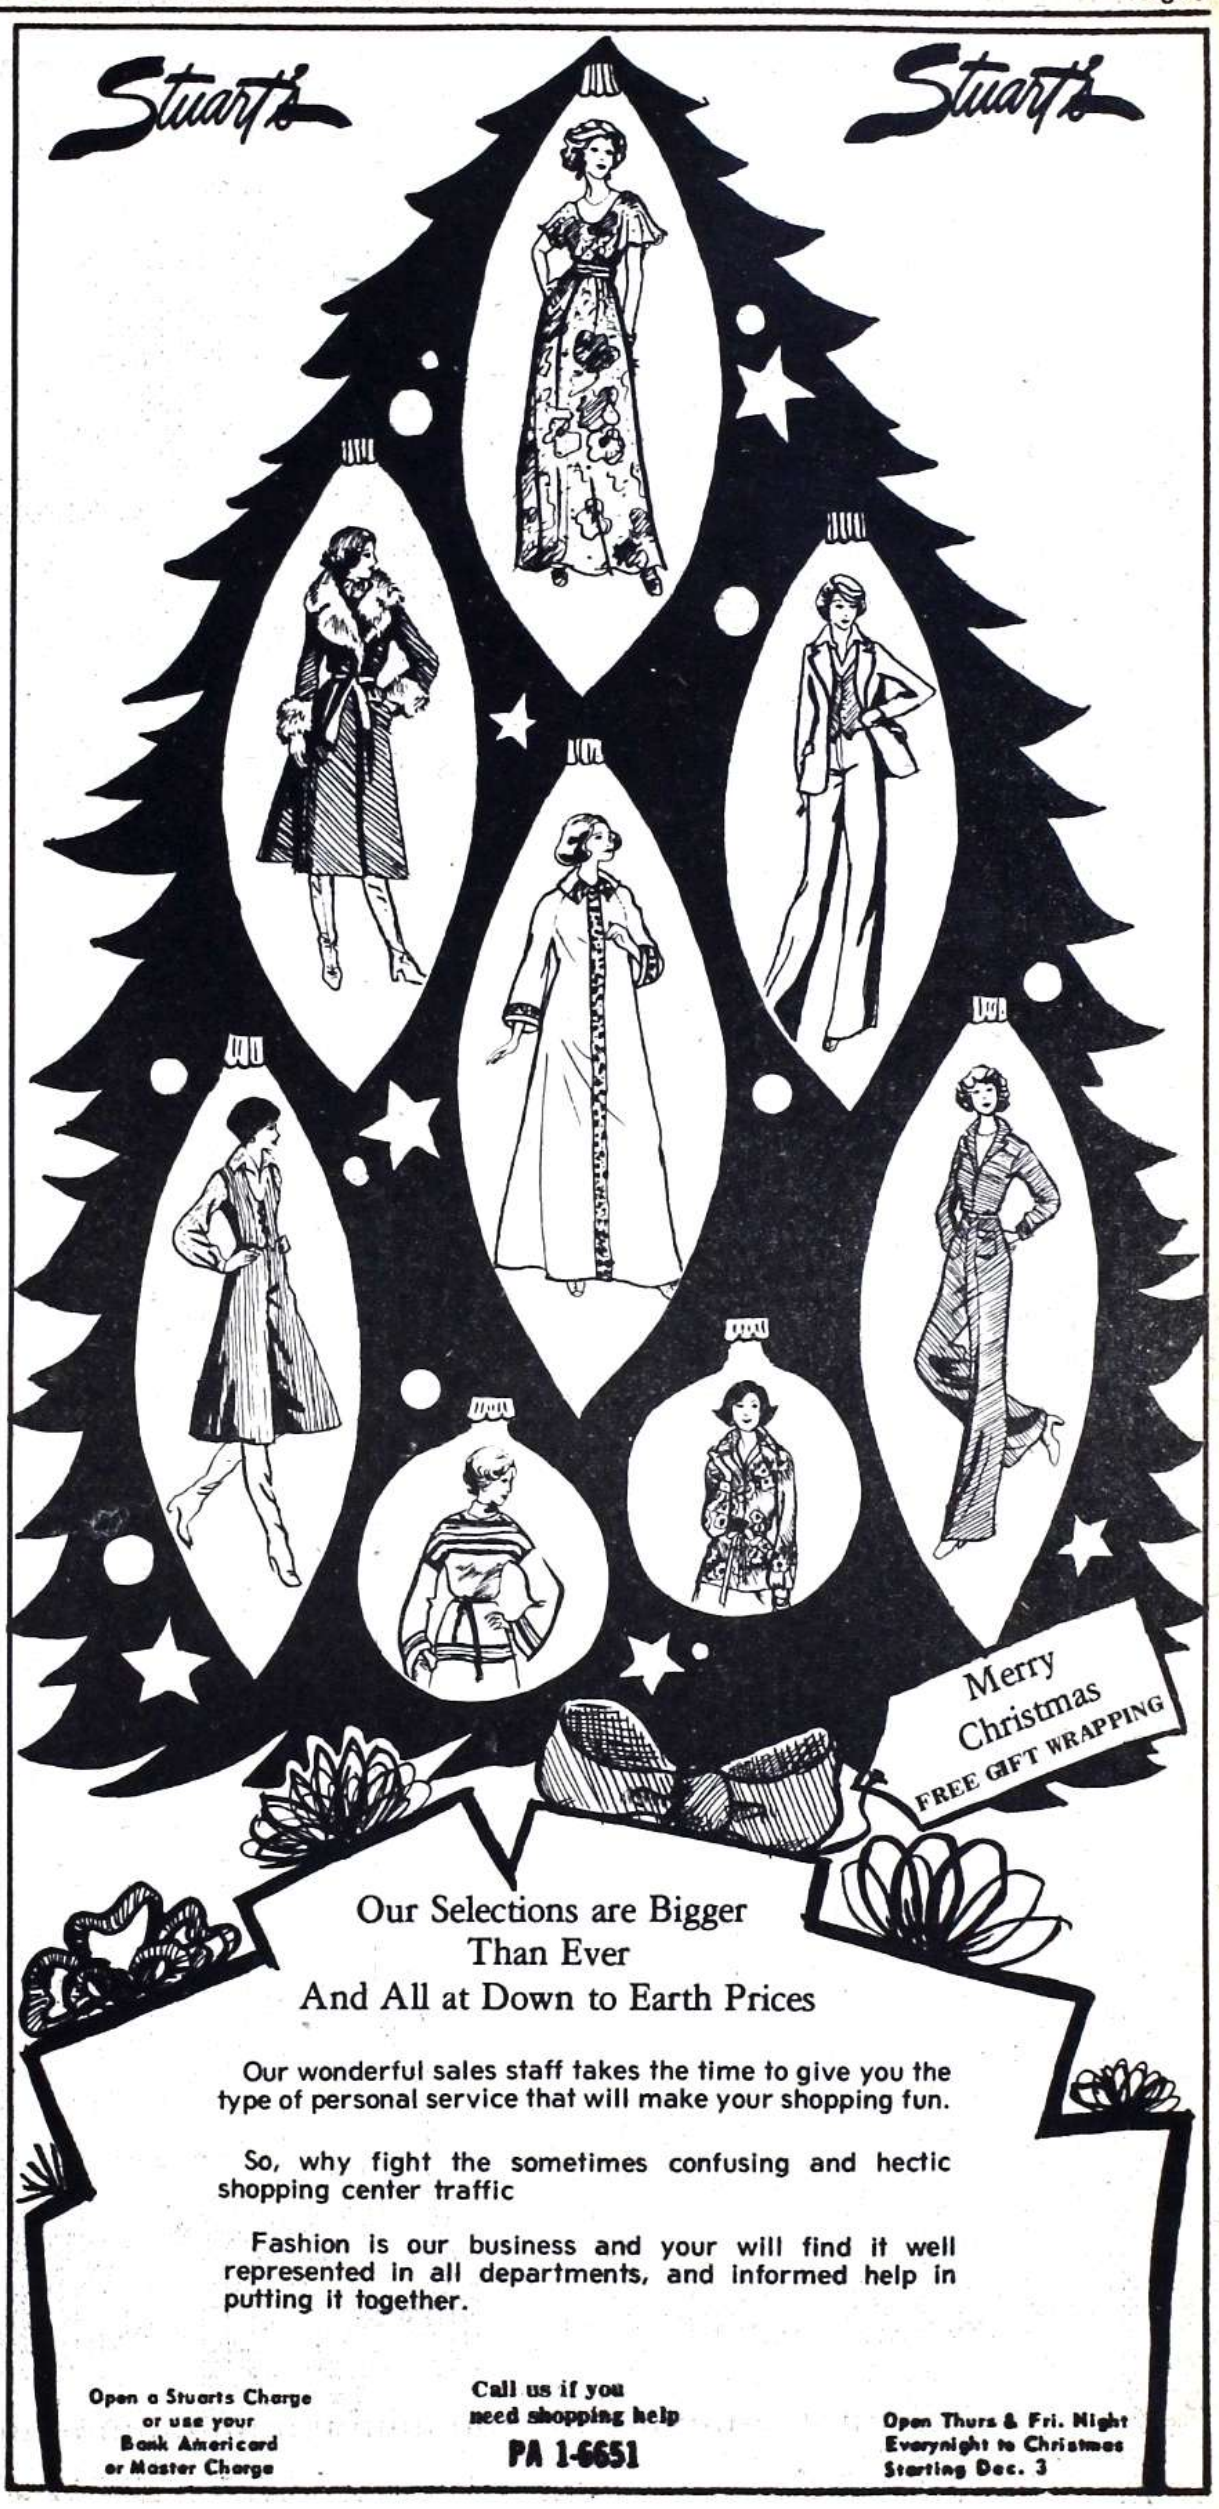
Combine all ingredients except the sausages in a saucepan. Blend over medium heat, stirring constantly until all cheese is melted. Do not boil. Transfer into fondue pot and keep warm. Broil or saute sausages until hot. Arrange attractively on a serving tray. You may want to garnish the arrangement with parsley and cherry tomatoes. Provide fondue forks or long wooden skewers for dipping. Serves 10.

Christmas kitchen hints

WANT TO SHIP cookies? Wrap each one separately, then pack them snugly. Fill in all the open spaces with popped corn to cushion them against the bumps in shipment.

EGGNOG SHOULD not stand at room temperature for any length of time. Freeze some of it in the form of ice cubes or in a ring mold to add to pitcher or punch bowl. The eggnog will keep cold without being diluted.

EGGNOG CAN BE prettily decorated with dollops of whipped cream or scoops of ice cream which have been garnished with strips of citron or angelica and a bit of maraschino or candied red cherry to simulate holly.



Swap cookies at Christmas

Christmas is a time for giving and receiving. Why not exchanging cookies?

Cookie swap parties are popular in many localities. At these small gatherings homemakers exchange their favorite for several others, all of them specialties. Each makes only her favorite cookie but comes home with at least five varieties for a lovely display and taste treat.

Of course, it's easier if each cookie baker makes only her favorite. She may have to make her batch twice or thrice, but that rhythm is easier than switching to several recipes.

The cookie swap also is a nice way of having an informal party during the busy season. The hostess displays the wares and provides either plain or decorated cardboard boxes for the exchange. She also serves eggnog and divinely thin slices of fruitcake to enhance the holiday mood of all her "good cooks."

Try these recipes to swap.

MINCEMEAT POINSETTIAS

1 cup (2 sticks) butter
1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese
2 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
Mincemeat
Candied cherries, cut in half

Cream butter and cream cheese until light and fluffy. Beat in sugar, eggs and vanilla. Combine flour, baking powder and salt; stir into creamed mixture to form stiff dough. Cover and chill.

Using ½ of dough at a time, roll out to ⅛-inch thickness on a lightly floured surface to form a 15 x 12-inch rectangle. Cut into 3-inch squares. Place on lightly buttered cookie sheets. Cut with sharp knife dipped in flour from corners of each square halfway to center. Place 1 teaspoonful of mincemeat in center of each square. Bring every other point of dough to center; pinch to hold in place. Press a candied cherry half in the center of each. Bake in preheated 375 degree oven 12 to 14 minutes. Yield 40.

LACE ROLL-UPS AND BOWS

½ cup (1 stick) butter
½ cup light corn syrup
Two thirds cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 cup finely chopped pecans

Bring butter, syrup and sugar to a boil in heavy saucepan over medium heat, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; gradually stir in flour and pecans until well blended. Drop batter by teaspoonfuls about 3 inches apart on lightly buttered cookie sheets. Bake only 4 to 6 cookies at a time. Bake in preheated 375 degree oven 5 to 6 minutes. Remove from oven. Let stand 2 to 3 minutes; then immediately loosen cookie with wide metal spatula. Roll around wooden spoon handle, or pinch in center to form bow. Cool completely on wire racks. Store cookies in tightly covered tin containers to retain crispness. Yield about 4 ½ dozen.

NOTE: If baked cookies become too crisp to roll, return to oven for 1 to 2 minutes to warm. Near end of baking, it may be necessary to warm cookie batter slightly over low heat to make it easier to drop.

Choose international holiday cookie favorites this year

Christmas traditions and nostalgic memories are made of many things. Among these are cookies which have been inspired by many countries that have lent their particular brand of magic to holiday goodies.

If you're casting about for new inspiration in the cookie department, then consider French Chocolate Orange Bon Bons, little balls of flavorful dough, dipped in egg white and chopped nuts. It's a recipe you'll like for taste and quantity (six dozen).

From Sweden comes Spritz pressed into fragile "S" shapes, as buttery, delicious and dainty as you could wish in a true Yule cookie. They're fun to make when the dough is just right, pliable rather than crumbly, to give a short and tender cookie. It is best not to soften butter before creaming but rather to cut it up and place in the mixing bowl while you get the other ingredients ready. Also, make certain the oven is preheated to prevent dough from spreading enough to lose the attractive shape.

Scotch Shortbread is noted for its tender texture and purity of flavor which comes from the butter. Be sure to let shortbread ripen so that butter flavor develops fully. This is a rolled cookie, for the sake of contrast, cut in triangles, sprinkled festively with colored sugars and almonds.

FRENCH CHOCOLATE ORANGE BON BONS

1 cup (2 sticks) butter
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg yolk
2 cups all-purpose flour
½ cup cocoa
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped candied orange peel
1 egg white, slightly beaten
1 cup chopped nuts

Cream butter; gradually add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Beat in vanilla and egg yolk. Combine flour, cocoa and salt; blend into creamed mixture. Stir in orange peel. Shape tablespoonfuls of dough into small balls. Dip top of each ball into egg

Holiday kitchen tips provide 'good eating'

WHEN CUTTING "roll and cut" cookie dough, dip knives and cutters in flour, but shake off the excess. Dip again, and shake off, if necessary, before you finish cutting out the dough.

WHEN A RECIPE calls for chopped candied fruit, dates, dried fruit or raisins, it's easier to cut them with kitchen shears rather than a knife. Dip the shears in water between cuttings to prevent stickiness.

BUTTER COOKIES taste better after they're mellowed or aged because time gives them an opportunity to develop flavor. They should, of course, be placed in the proper container when ripening at a cool room temperature.

SOFT COOKIES should be stored in containers into which you place a quarter of an apple. Change the apple every other day or so to keep the cookies moist. For crisp cookies, a cookie tin with a tightly fitting cover is best.

Roast rules roost at Yule

Every family has its own way of celebrating Christmas, but there's one tradition shared by all. A special meal is important among the many and varied holiday customs. Also common to all celebrations is the tradition of serving the best the budget will allow.

Roast beef, America's favorite meat, is a popular choice to head the holiday bill of fare. For an especially deluxe dinner, choose a beef rib eye roast, suggests Reba Staggs, National Live Stock and Meat Board home economist. It is easily carved into juicy, uniform slices. Use of a roast meat thermometer insures the degree of doneness desired.

RIB EYE ROAST

4 to 6-pound beef rib eye (Delmonico) roast

Place roast, fat side up, on rack in open roasting pan. Insert roast meat thermometer so the bulb is centered in the thickest part, being sure it does not rest in fat. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a moderate oven (350 degrees) to the desired degree of doneness. The meat thermometer will register 140 degrees for rare; 160 degrees for medium; 170 degrees for well done. Allow 18 to 20 minutes per pound for rare, 20 to 22 for medium and 22 to 24 for well done. Allow to "set" 15 minutes before carving.

Pate yule log world-wide symbol

The Yule log has become a traditional symbol of the holidays world-wide, dating back to the Norsemen who honored Thor, their god of war, by burning specially cut timbers. To set the mood of your holiday table, the National Hot Dog and Sausage Council suggests making a liver sausage pate Yule log, with surprise bites of salami, bologna or your favorite sausage tucked inside.

PATE YULE LOG

Pate:

1 pound liver sausage

¾ pound cream cheese

Inside Ingredients:

¼ pound bologna (¼-inch cubes)

¼ pound salami (¼-inch cubes)

¼ pound blood and tongue sausage or your favorite sausage (¼-inch cubes)

Garnish: Chopped parsley, chopped nuts and crushed potato chips

Blend liver sausage and cream cheese which have been prepared at room temperature.

Add cubed bologna, salami, blood and tongue sausage and mix with pate. Shape pate mixture into a log form, measuring about 8 to 10 inches long. Wrap in wax paper and chill.

Remove wax paper. Cut each end of log at an angle to resemble a cut log. Roll log in chopped parsley, chopped nuts or crushed potato chips. If desired, trimming can be used to shape a small "branch" on the log. Garnish with a cluster of radish roses or cherry tomatoes and sprigs of parsley. Serve with cocktail rye, or a cracker assortment.

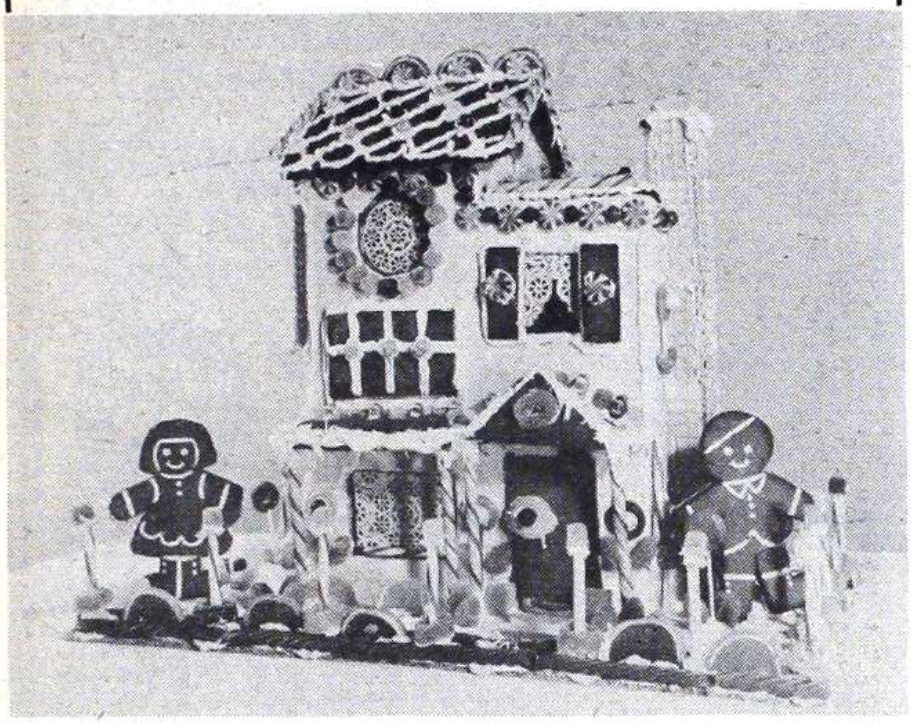
Gingerbread delight



Gingerbread house joy to make

What better way to create an old-fashioned Christmas than by building this delightful Gingerbread House? Not only is it fun to behold, it's a joy to make. You can save a few steps by creating the sub-structure of the house out of cardboard that is decorated with simple confectioner's frosting. The full-size pattern is simply traced onto cardboard.

Decorating the house is a cinch. We've clearly marked where each of the tasty candies goes and even given you a complete materials list so you know just what sweets you need.

Maybe you should buy a few extra to take care of the munchers and nibblers who will help you create this project for the whole family. There's even a full-size pattern for the gingerbread boy and girl and a guide for decorating them.

To obtain the full-size pattern No. 591, Gingerbread House, send

Gingerbread house easy to make

And here's a handy tip. In case you don't have a pastry tube, a substitute can be created by shaping waxed paper into a cone and snipping off the end.

Serve smorgasbord creations

Whet your guests' appetites while brightening your party table with a colorful smorgasbord of open-faced sandwich creations suggests The National Hot Dog and Sausage Council. In Denmark each individual "snitter" or sandwich often becomes a deliciously decorated gem, with hearty slices of sausage as its center.

CHICKEN LOAF ROLLS: Spread mayonnaise on a piece of cocktail rye and line with leaf lettuce overlapping slightly. Place two rolled up slices of Chicken Loaf and lettuce. Garnish with black olive slices and a sprig of parsley.

LIVER SAUSAGE TURBAN: Butter ½ of a small bun and line with leaf lettuce. Place a slice of liver sausage over and crown with radish slices, a cluster of diced onions and chopped parsley.

SALAMI SPIRAL: Butter a slice of cocktail rye and line with leaf lettuce. Arrange thin slices of salami and cucumber, alternating in a spiral effect. Garnish with chopped pimiento and a black olive slice.

CANADIAN HAM: Butter a small bun and line with leaf lettuce. Place thin slices of Canadian ham in a spiral fashion. Garnish with small dices of Swiss cheese and chopped parsley. Lay on oblong slice of pickle over all.

SMALL BOLOGNA: Butter slices of French bread and line with leaf lettuce. Overlap thin slices of bologna in a row. Garnish with onion rings and diced tomatoes.

South sea flavors captured in kabobs

The delicious flavors of the South Seas have been captured by chefs William Jaeger and Robert Dimoff in a tender honey loaf and pineapple glazed kabob.

For a clever Christmas accent, arrange kabobs spoke-fashion on a plate, then nestle an appealing ornament in a center nest of parsley. For a seasonal switch, use sprigs of washed holly to highlight appetizers in place of the usual parsley or lettuce

HOLIDAY KABOB CLASSIC

8 slices Honey Loaf or Ham (each cut in three equal strips)

8 slices Pineapple (cut in quarters)

4 tablespoons brown sugar

16 whole Maraschino cherries

16 toothpicks

Roll honey loaf strips around each piece of pineapple. Place two rollups on a toothpick divided by a Maraschino cherry. Sprinkle with brown sugar and broil until glaze develops.

Make your own decorations

Christmas traditionally has been a "do-it-yourself" season, with whole families gathering to create eye-catching decorations. That's why we've come up with these clever, easy-to-build Yuletide charmers. The Santa, sleigh, reindeer, elves, snowman and angel are full-size patterns you trace onto plywood — each just more than 3 feet high.

The curvatures of the figures have been simplified so that even the novice handyperson can saw them out in a jiffy.

They look delightful on the lawn or garage door, but are equally useful inside as dandy Christmas card holders, fireplace displays, or in children's rooms. Each whimsical character has its own painting chart to take all the guesswork out of completing the display.

And here's a tip. When painting items for outdoor use, always use a primer-sealer on the plywood. It gives a smoother finish and saves on paint.

To obtain No. 589 Christmas packet, send $8 cash, check or money order. If first-class delivery is desired, add $1. Send all orders to Steve Ellingson, care of Associated Newspapers Inc. Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

Kitchen goodies are 'special'

Goodies from your kitchen are natural ways to convey your holiday joy, to radiate friendship. These delicious treats will eloquently say, "You're special," during the season of giving. You can wrap up warmth and good cheer in the form of Merry Cherry Balls.

This recipe has a special holiday elegance made possible by one of the holiday baker's best friends, 100 percent natural cereal. This one convenient ingredient supplies six "gifts" from nature: rolled oats, whole wheat, almonds, honey, brown sugar and coconut. It's an easy way to add richness to festive foods throughout the season encircled with love.

MERRY CHERRY BALLS

½ cup sugar
One-third cup evaporated milk
One-third cup light corn syrup
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ teaspoon salt
3 cups 100 percent natural cereal, original
½ cup finely chopped red or green candied cherries

Combine sugar, milk, corn syrup, butter and salt. Cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, to soft ball stage (234 degrees) or until syrup dropped into cold water forms soft ball. Pour over combined cereal and cherries; mix well. Cool 15 minutes. With greased hands, shape to form 1-inch balls. Chill or store at room temperature. Makes about 2 dozen balls.

Variation: Substitute ½ cup raisins for candied cherries.

WESTLAND CENTER AT CHRISTMAS... IT TAKES YOU BACK.

Remember when you were young, how all the stores were stuffed with good things? Remember how you pressed your nose up against the windows, and wished so very hard for those things to be under your tree come Christmas morning?

Remember how you watched the Christmas shoppers . . . with their arms full of promising packages? Their very way of walking said it was Christmas. So did their eyes. And their smiles. And the glow on their faces.

Where can you find Christmas like that today?

WESTLAND CENTER

And if you feel the urge to press your face up to a window or two, go ahead. It's the spirit. And The Stores are filled with it.
